Ex-Detective Says Phone Firm Plotted On Unionists

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—A witness at a National Labor Relations Board hearing here testified today that officials of the struck Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. "wanted something to happen" to four strike leaders.

The witness, Charles W. Crouthers of Pittsburgh, a former private detective, said he and six companions were hired by the company late last August to investigate arson vandalism and sabotage to company installations.

After arriving in Portsmouth, however, Crouthers testified company officials told him they wanted "something to happen" to four leaders of the striking Communications Workers of America.

The CWA struck the company Jan. 17 in a dispute over clauses concerning working conditions in a proposed new contract.

The NLRB hearing began last month on company charges of unfair labor practices by the union.

Crouthers testified that "the number one man they wanted out of the way was Bill Hipple (local strike director)." He added that they were told to "put out of the way" three other strike leaders, Gene Shepard, Norman Bush and Russell Cook.

"They said we could run them down with a car if necessary," Crouthers testified.

Crouthers said he was hired by oral agreement with Sidney Griffith of Columbus, the company's attorney, at the personal request of C. E. Williams, Ohio Consolidated president.

Williams denied hiring Crouthers. "I certainly did not hire the man," Williams said. "What he says is untrue." Griffith could not be reached for comment.

Two previous witnesses, James R. Tindal and William Kerr, both of New Castle, Pa., testified at the hearing last Monday, that they came to Portsmouth with Crouthers. Both men testified that company officials asked them to get the four strike leaders "out of the picture."

U.S. Is Asked To Help Boom Popcorn Sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to boom popcorn, grown in Ohio and elsewhere, throughout the world is on the fire at the Agriculture Department.

And Rep. Bass (D-Tenn.) says he isn't going to let the proposal cool off.

He has joined heartily in the proposal originally popped into the hands of the Foreign Agriculture Service by J. V. Blevins of Nashville, Tenn., known by many as the "Popcorn King."

The kernel of the whole idea is use of counterpart funds—foreign currencies in American hands overseas.

Blevins asked the Foreign Agriculture Service to use $250,000 of such money for a program to popularize popcorn which he says is "a traditionally and typical American food."

Among other things, he said popcorn exhibits should be placed at future international trade fairs because "the animation and aroma coming from a popcorn exhibit excites the imagination of all."

Blevins, who won his title because his company is one of the biggest processors of popcorn, said the production of popcorn is of major economic importance.

He said 170,000 acres of popcorn are grown annually in the United States and that about $7 million a year is received by the farmers.

'Peace Crusade' Said Red-Backed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Peace Crusade, which has sponsored several "peace marches" on Washington, was described formally today as a Communist front.

In a report filed with the Subversive Activities Control Board, former SACB Chairman Thomas Herbert recommended that the board issue an order directing the organization to register with the Justice Department under the 1950 internal security law.

Herbert conducted hearings in the case before he resigned Dec. 31 to become a judge of the Ohio Supreme Court. His report said the testimony showed the American Peace Crusade, with headquarters in New York, was founded by the Communist party.

Ike Planning New Civil Rights Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—Att. Gen. Herbert Brownell says the Eisenhower administration will press for legislation "to make civil rights a living force in our society, not merely an empty phrase."

Brownell said administration proposals on civil rights include:

1. Creation of a civil rights division in the Justice Department.

2. Giving the government the right to have civil authority to seek injunctions in cases where civil rights are invaded.

New A-Testing Series Slated

Nevada To See Spring Firing Of Small Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is setting up a new series of atomic tests, presumably to include such defense weapons as nuclear anti-aircraft missiles and artillery.

An AEC announcement Thursday night gave no dates, but said the tests will begin late in the spring at the Nevada proving grounds west of Las Vegas.

Four previous series of tests have been conducted there, the last in the spring of 1955.

The announcement said the new series "will involve 'low-yield nuclear tests.'"

This presumably means that the explosions will be not much more than 30 kilotons. A kiloton is the equivalent of the energy released in explosion of 1,000 tons of TNT.

The commission, obviously sensitive to concern over radiological fall-out from nuclear explosions, emphasized that "tests of high-yield devices are not conducted in Nevada." In general, a "high-yield" explosion is of H-bomb proportions, producing forces as high as 17 million tons of TNT.

THE AEC announcement of the new test series came only four days after, the commission said, the Russians had conducted "another nuclear weapons test in their current series" which started last year.

Two statements pointed up sharply the intention to give primary attention to tactical, rather than massive strategic-type weapons, in the 1957 series:

1. The comment by President Eisenhower, in his recent budget message, that during the new fiscal year "emphasis will be placed on weapons for tactical purposes."

2. The commission's statement Thursday night that in the new series "development of weapons for defense against attack is a major objective."

White House Opens Gala Social Season

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House was ablaze with the glitter and pomp of its first official reception in two years Thursday night as President and Mrs. Eisenhower entertained 1,200 guests.

The occasion, a welcome to diplomats assigned to Washington, came just three days after the President took the oath of office for a second term.

Mrs. Eisenhower wore her citrine-yellow inaugural ball gown as she came down the grand staircase on the President's arm to launch the social season.

Kashmir To Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—By a 10-0 vote, the U.N. Security Council has called on India and Pakistan to stand fast in disputed Kashmir until the people decide their future through a plebiscite.

Cleveland Milk Price Hike OK'd

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dairy farmers in the Cleveland milkshed will get a boost in receipts for milk scheduled for January as a result of an agreement reached with major milk handlers here.

The milk handlers have agreed to absorb a 25-cent per hundred-weight adjustment which would have reduced the price paid farmers for Class I milk.

Adults At School Games Given Blame For 'Wave Of Discourtesy' In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—H. W. Emswiler, Ohio high school commissioner of athletics, today blamed adults for what he termed a "wave of discourtesy and disturbance sweeping over the state" at basketball games.

"From the standpoint of conduct, the situation is worse than it has ever been," Emswiler said. "I don't know the answer, and I don't know the cause."

"Perhaps the games provide an emotional outlet, or cause an emotional breakdown. Maybe it is caused by night games, with fans too closely packed into small playing arenas. Perhaps everyone is nervous because of the international situation. It may be a combination of all these, but a remedy must be found."

"Never in history have we received so many complaints against coaches, officials and the public as we've received this year. The disturbances seem to pop up all over the state. We have even discussed the possibility of limiting game spectators to the student bodies and teachers, with the general public excluded. Of course, it hasn't come to that yet, but it is a possibility if disturbances continue."

In an editorial in the Ohio High School Athlete, official publication of the state association, Emswiler observed:

"As a laboratory for good citizenship, interscholastic athletics possibilities exceed those of any other phase of the school's program."

"If that laboratory does not function effectively it will be because of poor adult leadership and influence. To utterly ruin the athletic program the forces of wrong adult influence must prevail over the natural tendencies of wholesome, contest-loving youngsters."

"Fair play is a thing that involves much more than just a relationship that exists among the pupils of a school. It also involves the behavior of the adult community at the games."

Skid Row Figure Tied To Slayings

CHICAGO (AP)—The investigation of the murder of the Grimes sisters appeared centered today on further questioning of a young Skid Row dishwasher.

Sheriff Joseph Lohman said Bennie Bedwill, 21, has been identified by five persons as being in the company of the teenage sisters in two restaurants after their disappearance Dec. 28.

The nude, frozen bodies of Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister Patricia were found Tuesday in a ditch along a road in suburban Willow Springs.

Lohman said Bedwill, whom he described as illiterate, was given lie detector tests and questioned for hours Thursday in connection with the slayings.

"He is definitely not telling the truth," Lohman reported. "He lied on so many points I can't enumerate them. He contradicts himself repeatedly."

THE SHERIFF said Bedwill, formerly of Paris, Tenn., was held for further questioning today, saying "the evidence against this man warrants further investigation."

Lohman said Bedwill, who has an Elvis Presley type haircut, admitted he and an unidentified man were with two girls the night of Dec. 28, but denied they were the Grimes sisters. He added their clothing did not match that worn by the Grimes girls when they disappeared.

The sheriff said owners of a restaurant in the Skid Row district where Bedwill worked part-time as a dishwasher told him they saw Bedwill in their restaurant Dec. 30 with two girls they identified as the Grimes sisters.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Duros, told Lohman a man of Mexican or Puerto Rican descent was with the girls and Bedwill.

Lohman said Casey Jarzen, 42, operator of a drive-in restaurant in suburban Stickney, his wife, Mary and daughter Donna, 15, also placed the then missing girls in the company of Bedwill and another man in their establishment Jan. 11.

Lohman said Chester Wizecki, 34, a cook in the restaurant, said one of the girls wore a black jacket with the name "Pat" embroidered on the left collar. The sheriff said the girls' mother, Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, said Patricia wore such a sweater the night she and Barbara left their South Side home to attend a movie.

Lohman said Anne Pobich, 39, a waitress in a restaurant near the movie theater, told him she saw the Grimes sisters in the restaurant on the night of Dec. 28. The sheriff said Mrs. Pobich related two men, one of whom resembled Bedwill, left the restaurant with the two girls.

4 Women Die As Fire Hits Shop Building

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Fire flashed through a four-story brick loft building an hour before quitting time Thursday. Women workers panicked trying to flee.

There were 112 workers inside. Four are dead, 5 are missing and feared dead, and 31 injured.

Women, their hair and clothes blazing, piled from the building onto fire escapes.

One fire escape, supposed to lower to the ground, jammed, trapping the women against the building.

Fireman James Curry, one of the first up the fire escape, said five women were jammed up on its fourth-floor landing. He said: "Their legs were caught between the steps of the fire escape and we had to pull them apart."

Firemen got three down. The other two burned there.

The sprawling, 70-year-old loft building, near the harbor on the East side, housed six separate shops. Two machine shops occupied the first floor, and the other three floors houses dress shops and a house slipper maker.

No one knew how the fire started.

Fire Marshal Eugene Mulligan said "panic as much as anything else" accounted for the deaths.

3 Of 6 Airmen Survive Collision

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three survivors in "good condition" were picked up today after the collision and crash of two U. S. Air Force Stratofort bombers which carried six men.

The two intercontinental bombers crashed Thursday night off Cuba's southwest coast.

The U. S. Coast Guard sighted the three men on a life raft early today and an Air Force amphibian plane landed to pick them up.

The two bombers were part of a group of planes on a refueling practice mission.

Quakers Retain Librarian Accused In Senate Probe

PLYMOUTH MEETING, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Knowles, who was convicted of contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions about Communist affiliations, has been retained in her job at a Quaker library and will be given a salary raise.

A board of the Quaker-operated library said Thursday it wanted to "restate our confidence" in Mrs. Knowles.

She is free on bail pending an appeal of a 120-day jail sentence and a $500 fine given her in federal court in Washington.

The 46-year-old librarian was found guilty of 53 of 58 contempt counts for declining to answer questions asked her by a Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Fall Kills Baby

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two-week-old Gale Nichols died in City Hospital of head injuries police said resulted when her brothers, Robert, 2, and Gerald, 3, dropped her on the floor early today.

FBI Cracks New Russian Spy Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI today cracked down on another alleged Russian spy ring, arresting a woman and two men. The agency hinted the roundup may involve "Soviet officials."

Those taken into custody were identified as:

Jack Sobie, 53, a native of Lithuania who entered the U. S. in 1941 and became a naturalized citizen in 1947. He was termed a onetime boss of other Red agents.

Myra Sobie, 52, wife of Jack Sobie, a native of Russia who came to the U. S. a few days before her husband and also became a naturalized citizen.

Jacob Albam, 64, Lithuanian born foreman of a Brooklyn tea and spice company, who entered the country in 1947 on a visitor's visa, married an American woman and has been seeking citizenship.

The trio was taken under a heavy guard to FBI headquarters here, the men in handcuffs.

FBI agents also carried a quantity of brown paper boxes, whose contents were not disclosed, and a quantity of material described only as "papers."

ALSO BROUGHT in was a silver metal box, about a foot square and four inches high.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said the three were identified as a result of the FBI's scrutiny of the clandestine activities of Vassili Zubilin who reportedly once was a general in the N.K.V.D. (Soviet secret police).

Zubilin, after serving as third secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, returned to Russia in 1944.

Hoover said Sobie was picked up as he made plans to leave the country.

Previously, the FBI chief said, Sobie's attempts to leave had been blocked by failure to obtain a passport.

The FBI said Sobie has long been involved in Soviet intelligence activity and at one time had under his supervision other Soviet agents in the United States.

Among those working under Sobie's direction was Albam.

In addition to espionage conspiracy charges, Hoover said, the Sobies and Albam also were charged with conspiring to act as agents of the Soviet government without notification to the secretary of state.

Hinting at the likelihood more than the three persons are involved in the case, the FBI said evidence will be presented to a New York grand jury "pertaining to those arrested as well as others who might be involved in the espionage conspiracy, including Soviet officials."

The FBI said this is the first espionage conspiracy case developed since that of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed in 1953.

'Prank' Is Fatal To Second Nurse

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Death Thursday claimed the second of two nurses who were burned in an ether explosion caused by a "prank." The latest fatality was Miss Charlotte Smith, 23.

Miss Kathleen Oehler, 19, died Sunday of burns suffered in the incident Jan. 16.

Two registered nurses signed statements that each threw about a half-pint of ether at the students just before the fire, without knowing Miss Smith was smoking.

They are Margaret R. Donovan, 24, and Mary Frances Hutchinson, 26.

Consumer Prices Continuing Climb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumer prices climbed 0.2 per cent in December for a total rise of 3 per cent in the year 1956, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Prices of food and clothing were unchanged in the main and transportation costs dipped a little but virtually all other elements of family living costs went up.

The consumer price index reached an all-time high at 118 per cent of the 1947-49 average, as against 114.7 in December of 1955 and 117.8 in November.

Higher housing costs were chiefly responsible for the increase, BLS said. They jumped one-half of 1 per cent.

A-Powered Ship Program Expanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is broadening its efforts to develop a practical merchant ship run by atomic power.

It announced Thursday a long-range program aimed at producing nuclear power plants for "commercially competitive" merchant vessels.

The project will be run jointly by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration. It has been signed with six private firms. No target date was set.

Jet Spans U.S. In 3 Hours 47 Minutes

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—A six-jet B47, on a trans continental flight planned for scientific study of the jet stream, spanned the country in 3 hours, 47 minutes today.

Maj. Mont Smith of Champaign, Ill., in charge of the aircraft, said he did not know of any record for this particular course, from March Air Force Base, Calif., to Hanscom Air Force Base here. Maximum speed attained was 750 miles an hour. The flight covered 2,700 miles at an average speed of 715 m.p.h.

A record transcontinental flight of 3:44.53 was set by an Air Force F84F thunderbolt in 1955.

Maj. Smith said the weather was very good and that the plane flew most of the way at about 37,000 feet. The jet stream is usually 35,000 to 40,000 feet high. They have been measured at 250 m.p.h.

Charles F. Hawkins of South Windsor, Conn., observer-navigator, said the purpose of the flight was to "check the feasibility of finding a jet stream on the West Coast and flying it to the East Coast." He said a jet stream is fast moving air which gives a favoring tailwind. He said a modified automatic navigator finds the most favorable tail wind.

Hawkins said he had little difficulty finding the jet stream and picked it up at Albuquerque, N. M. He added he found the jet core, the area of maximum tail wind, at 36,500 feet and followed a series of steps downward to 34,500 feet before turning away from the stream at Hartford, Conn.

Rocky Road Looming For AFL-CIO Unit

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Talk among AFL-CIO leaders attending winter meetings here pointed today to a rocky road immediately ahead for the year-old merged labor organization.

A squabble loomed among big AFL-CIO unions over whether organized labor should cooperate with a thorough-going investigation of alleged union racketeering rapping up in Congress.

A second point of probable conflict is a growing scrap among former AFL and former CIO unions in their age-old jurisdictional battle. AFL-CIO President George Meany is trying to iron this out, but rivalries are deep-rooted.

A third factor pointing to strife is the approaching deadline next December for merging rival AFL and CIO state and local groups with the big industrial states. Only a score of the least industrialized states have completed mergers.

The U. S. Senate is about to trigger off in Washington a probe of alleged union corruption. The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) already has held hearings at which several union officials refused to testify.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers and an AFL-CIO vice president, said he wants to take up with the AFL-CIO Executive Council next week the refusal of some union officials to testify before congressional committees.

Hammaraskjold Reveals 'Legal Barriers' Curb Egyptian Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammaraskjold says serious legal barriers stand in the way of accepting Israel's terms for pulling her troops out of the Gaza Strip.

The secretary general's view was contained in a special report to the 80-nation General Assembly announcing that Israel "has not fully complied" with that body's demands for complete withdrawal of her forces from Egypt by Thursday night.

He also transmitted to the Assembly a memorandum in which Israel stated her troops still were in the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area at the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and would remain there until her interests were safeguarded.

Hammaraskjold expressed the view that the U. N. emergency force would be able to move into these areas, if Israel withdrew, but that they could not carry out functions which Israel demands.

The United States was reported to have advised Hammaraskjold to send the emergency force into the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area until a stable arrangement can be worked out.

The British also feel Hammaraskjold has that authority. Any move to station the U. N. forces in the two areas for any length of time appeared certain to run into furious opposition from Egypt, her Arab allies and probably the Soviet bloc.

Egyptian spokesmen have consistently maintained that the U. N. force must leave Egypt as soon as all invasion forces are out.

Quakers Retain Librarian Accused In Senate Probe

PLYMOUTH MEETING, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Knowles, who was convicted of contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions about Communist affiliations, has been retained in her job at a Quaker library and will be given a salary raise.

A board of the Quaker-operated library said Thursday it wanted to "restate our confidence" in Mrs. Knowles.

She is free on bail pending an appeal of a 120-day jail sentence and a $500 fine given her in federal court in Washington.

The 46-year-old librarian was found guilty of 53 of 58 contempt counts for declining to answer questions asked her by a Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Fall Kills Baby

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two-week-old Gale Nichols died in City Hospital of head injuries police said resulted when her brothers, Robert, 2, and Gerald, 3, dropped her on the floor early today.

The two intercontinental bombers crashed Thursday night off Cuba's southwest coast.

The U. S. Coast Guard sighted the three men on a life raft early today and an Air Force amphibian plane landed to pick them up.

The two bombers were part of a group of planes on a refueling practice mission.

3 Of 6 Airmen Survive Collision

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three survivors in "good condition" were picked up today after the collision and crash of two U. S. Air Force Stratofort bombers which carried six men.

FBI Cracks New Russian Spy Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI today cracked down on another alleged Russian spy ring, arresting a woman and two men. The agency hinted the roundup may involve "Soviet officials."

Those taken into custody were identified as:

Jack Sobie, 53, a native of Lithuania who entered the U. S. in 1941 and became a naturalized citizen in 1947. He was termed a onetime boss of other Red agents.

Myra Sobie, 52, wife of Jack Sobie, a native of Russia who came to the U. S. a few days before her husband and also became a naturalized citizen.

Jacob Albam, 64, Lithuanian born foreman of a Brooklyn tea and spice company, who entered the country in 1947 on a visitor's visa, married an American woman and has been seeking citizenship.

The trio was taken under a heavy guard to FBI headquarters here, the men in handcuffs. FBI agents also carried a quantity of brown paper boxes, whose contents were not disclosed, and a quantity of material described only as "papers."

ALSO BROUGHT in was a silver metal box, about a foot square and four inches high.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said the three were identified as a result of the FBI's scrutiny of the clandestine activities of Vassili Zubilin who reportedly once was a general in the N.K.V.D. (Soviet secret police).

Zubilin, after serving as third secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, returned to Russia in 1944.

Hoover said Sobie was picked up as he made plans to leave the country.

Previously, the FBI chief said, Sobie's attempts to leave had been blocked by failure to obtain a passport.

The FBI said Sobie has long been involved in Soviet intelligence activity and at one time had under his supervision other Soviet agents in the United States.

Among those working under Sobie's direction was Albam.

In addition to espionage conspiracy charges, Hoover said, the Sobies and Albam also were charged with conspiring to act as agents of the Soviet government without notification to the secretary of state.

Hinting at the likelihood more than the three persons are involved in the case, the FBI said evidence will be presented to a New York grand jury "pertaining to those arrested as well as others who might be involved in the espionage conspiracy, including Soviet officials."

The FBI said this is the first espionage conspiracy case developed since that of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed in 1953.

'Prank' Is Fatal To Second Nurse

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Death Thursday claimed the second of two nurses who were burned in an ether explosion caused by a "prank." The latest fatality was Miss Charlotte Smith, 23.

Miss Kathleen Oehler, 19, died Sunday of burns suffered in the incident Jan. 16.

Two registered nurses signed statements that each threw about a half-pint of ether at the students just before the fire, without knowing Miss Smith was smoking. They are Margaret R. Donovan, 24, and Mary Frances Hutchinson, 26.

Consumer Prices Continuing Climb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumer prices climbed 0.2 per cent in December for a total rise of 3 per cent in the year 1956, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Prices of food and clothing were unchanged in the main and transportation costs dipped a little but virtually all other elements of family living costs went up.

The consumer price index reached an all-time high at 118 per cent of the 1947-49 average, as against 114.7 in December of 1955 and 117.8 in November.

Higher housing costs were chiefly responsible for the increase, BLS said. They jumped one-half of 1 per cent.

A-Powered Ship Program Expanded

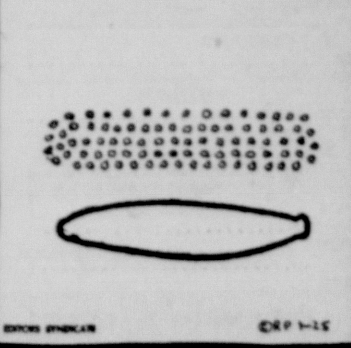

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is broadening its efforts to develop a practical merchant ship run by atomic power.

It announced Thursday a long-range program aimed at producing nuclear power plants for "commercially competitive" merchant vessels.

The project will be run jointly by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration and signed with six private firms. No target date was set.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"CORN OFF THE COB"

If this Droodle does nothing else it at least gives me an opportunity to mention a book that Mrs. Schwine has written. It's called, "Eating Can Be Sloppy" and today she sold me the very first copy. It's crammed from cover to cover with stuff that you messy eaters will love. For example here are some of the chapter headings: "HOW TO CATCH A SLIPPERY MEAT BALL ON THE FIRST BOUNCE", "BURP CONTROL", "WHAT TO DO WITH A SLEEVE FULL OF GRAY", "IS NAPKIN RASH DANGEROUS", "DON'T BE A SLOB WITH CORN ON THE COB", "TWELVE HIDING PLACES FOR OLIVE PITTS", "WHY HONEYDEW MELONS SHOULDN'T BE SWALLOWED WHOLE", "HOW TO REMOVE WATERMELON SEEDS FROM THE EARS". I could go on and on, but I think what you should do is go out and buy your own copy of this book. After all, why should I be the only one who got stuck.

Adults At School Games Given Blame For 'Wave Of Discourtesy' In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—H. W. Emswiler, Ohio high school commissioner of athletics, today blamed adult fans for what he termed a "wave of discourtesy and disturbance sweeping over the state" at basketball games.

"From the standpoint of conduct, the situation is worse than it has ever been," Emswiler said. "I don't know the answer, and I don't know the cause."

"Perhaps the games provide an emotional outlet, or cause an emotional breakdown. Maybe it is caused by night games, with fans too closely packed into small playing arenas. Perhaps everyone is nervous because of the international situation. It may be a combination of all these, but a remedy must be found."

"Never in history have we received so many complaints against coaches, officials and the public as we've received this year. The disturbances seem to pop up all over the state. We have even discussed the possibility of limiting game spectators to the student bodies and teachers, with the general public excluded. Of course, it hasn't come to that yet, but it's a possibility if disturbances continue."

In an editorial in the Ohio High School Athlete, official publication of the state association, Emswiler observed:

"As a laboratory for good citizenship, interscholastic athletics possibilities exceed those of any other phase of the school's program."

"If that laboratory does not function effectively it will be because of poor adult leadership and influence. To utterly ruin the athletic program the forces of wrong adult influence must prevail over the natural tendencies of wholesome, contest-loving youngsters."

"Fair play is a thing that involves much more than just a relationship that exists among the pupils of a school. It also involves the behavior of the adult community at the games."

"It must be as reported in South Pacific—"You have to be carefully taught to hate" but where does this teaching begin and who are the teachers, and why? What alters the attitude of some students after graduation? Why substitute bigotry and snobishness for performance and accomplishment? That's an enigma, isn't it?"

"For top citizenship a good program of interscholastic athletics for all students—taught by the school and not nullified by the antics and bias of those adults whose actions belie any real interest in sportsmanship and fair play—is a 'must.'"

any attempt by the Western Powers to "internationalize" Gaza and Egypt's Gulf of Aqaba coast "would lead to new trouble."

Hammarskjold has been trying for the last week to persuade Israel to get all her troops out of Egypt in response to repeated Assembly requests. He was said to have given up hope of success after Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion served notice Israel's forces would not pull out without concrete assurances of protection against Arab attack.

The Israeli delegation reportedly spelled out its position even more clearly, telling Hammarskjold their government had no intention of withdrawing until assured free navigation of the Aqaba Gulf and a hand in the administration of Gaza.

The Israeli stand brought warnings in the Cairo press of possible military action if Israel does not pull out on once.

Egypt and a number of Asian-African nations began drumming up support for a resolution to impose stiff economic penalties, perhaps including a trade boycott, against Israel.

Many delegates felt such a drastic resolution would have trouble getting the required two-thirds majority in the 80-nation assembly.

More Propaganda Planned By U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that the Eisenhower administration is planning a propaganda counter offensive in the Middle East.

The U. S. government's position is "definitely hardening" against Egyptian President Nasser, the newspaper added.

The story said U. S. propaganda activities have been increased to counteract Arabic broadcast attacks on the Eisenhower Middle Eastern policy. The Voice of America is now using 9½ hours of Arabic broadcasts daily.

Agent Advises Early Work On Taxes For 1957

Marion Kroetz, associate county agent, today reminded area farmers that now is the time to start thinking about income taxes that will be paid in 1957.

Kroetz pointed out that tax management is something farmers have to think about year round.

The associate agent went on to say that tax management is not a means of postponing taxes or cheating the government.

"Successful tax management is based upon complete records kept regularly throughout the year," Kroetz said. With good records, it is easy to make periodic checks of income and expenses to determine the approximate taxable income to date.

THIS enables farmers to make business decisions that will result in the greatest net income after taxes.

Frequently there is no conflict between wise tax management and farm management decisions. When a conflict does occur, the decision resulting in the largest net income should be followed, the agent added. Wise farm management decisions usually take precedence over tax management decisions.

The local extension office has a bulletin "Income Tax Management for Farmers". This bulletin gives many tips on wise tax procedures. It also has a handy income estimate form which will help in tax problems.

Road Deaths Dip

COLUMBUS (AP)—Traffic fatalities in Ohio decreased three per cent in 1956 from 1,481 in 1955 to 1,427 last year, the Ohio Department of Highway Safety says.

Health Officials Remind Residents That Polio Vaccine Is Available

Helen Pickens of the Pickaway County Health Department reminded the public today that now is the time for area residents to start taking their polio series shots in order to receive maximum protection against the polio season which usually starts in July.

Officials at the local health office happily noted that no polio cases were reported in Pickaway County last year. In an effort to maintain this record, the department administered over 5,000 shots during the year. The inoculations were given in a three-shot series.

Mrs. Pickens said her department expects to give at least 1,400 shots during the coming third period inoculations. She went on to say that plenty of Salk vaccine is now available here, although this was not the case when the program first started.

Mrs. Pickens pointed out that the increased availability of vaccine has actually started to cause an oversupply in some commercial outlets throughout the state. Local physicians also have an abundant supply on hand.

STATE health officials, therefore, have advised a change of policy as far as the number of shots that can be given to children and pregnant women.

Recommendations are emphasized that children through the age of 19 and expectant mothers be given second shots. The third shot may be administered provided a sufficient period of time has elapsed since the second shot was given.

People of all ages are urged to secure, through their personal physicians protection against the dreaded disease.

Additional vaccine to provide inoculations can be requested by local health officials from the State Health Department at any time.

State officials also recommended that inoculations be continued throughout the summer months. They emphasized that a very small possible risk is greatly outweighed by the advantages of protection the vaccine offers against the dreaded disease.

Local Drive-In Entered; Money, Cigarettes Gone

Thompson's Drive Inn Restaurant, on Route 23 south of Circleville, was entered and robbed early this morning. About $45 in small change and a large quantity of cigarettes were taken.

The break-in was discovered about 6 a. m. by Helen and Everett Thompson, owners of the restaurant. Entrance was made through a south window which had been smashed by a rock and then unlocked.

A cigarette machine was pried open and emptied of about $21 in nickels, dimes and quarters and an unknown quantity of cigarettes. A total of $25 in change was taken from a juke box, also pried open.

About 11 cartons of cigarettes were reported missing from an unlocked storeroom. A door on a bowling machine was also pried off, but the machine had been emptied of change by Thompson the night before.

The robbery was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff who reported that the premises had been checked by a cruiser about 3:15 a. m. and everything was found secure at that time.

An imprint of a right shoe was found on a counter stool located directly inside the window that had been broken. Exit was made through a rear door on the south side of the building. However no tracks were found in the snow.

The break-in was the third reported by Thompson since he acquired the restaurant last year. A quantity of food was taken in a robbery last September. Two weeks later a sum of money was stolen in a second break-in.

Sales Tax Data Shows Increase

Revenues of $2,971,163 from the sale of prepaid tax receipts for the week ending January 12, 1957 topped collections for the corresponding week last year by $279,877, or 10.39 percent.

In Pickaway County, sales tax receipts for the week ending January 12 amounted to $6,852.07. The total for the corresponding week of last year was $6,149.33.

Statewide, the cumulative grand total sales tax collections of $128,195,322, which include prepaid tax receipts, use tax and other collections to date for the current fiscal year, also exceeded last year's over-all revenues reported for the corresponding period of the previous year on January 14, 1956.

The actual amount of increase was $1,189,673 or 93 percent, in excess of the grand total collections of $127,055,649 a year ago.

A breakdown of sales by counties shows that 36 counties, including Cuyahoga, Franklin, Hamilton, Mahoning, Stark and Summit of the eight major urban counties, have cumulative revenues for the year in excess of last year. At the same time, 26 other counties, including Lucas and Montgomery, reported collections for the week in excess of the same week a year ago.

He was born in Circleville in 1904, the son of William and Minnie Protzman.

Mr. Protzman is survived by his wife, Mamie.

Other survivors include: a daughter, Marvene of the home and three sons, George, Louis and Eugene of Painesville.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Householder Funeral Home in Newark.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery, Circleville, at 3 p. m. Saturday.

KATE DAVENPORT

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Miss Kate Davenport of Chillicothe in the Ware Funeral Home of Chillicothe.

Miss Davenport died Wednesday in the Chillicothe Hospital following a heart attack.

She was born August 20, 1877, in Pickaway County, the daughter of Samuel G. and Eliza Jones Davenport. She was a former resident of Circleville.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery, Circleville.

ROBERT R. CARTER

Funeral services for Robert R. Carter of Circleville will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Southwick Funeral Home, Columbus.

Mr. Carter, formerly of Columbus, died Wednesday in Berger Hospital at the age of 79.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth Binkley Carter of Union St.

Also surviving the deceased are: a daughter, Mrs. Jack Cookston of Columbus; five stepchildren, Mrs. Leslie Garrett, Mr. Harold Binkley, Mr. James Binkley, Mrs. William Thomas, all of Circleville, and Helen Binkley of Columbus; a sister, Mrs. Meda Hawkins of Columbus and two grandchildren.

Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Columbus.

HAZEL F. MCKITTRICK

Mrs. Hazel Florence McKittrick, 52, of 142 York St. died today at 5 a. m. in her home.

Mrs. McKittrick was born in Ross County on Dec. 1, 1904, a daughter of Clinton Chaney (deceased) and Sarah Wilson Chaney Dinner, 144 York St.

Survivors are as follows: The husband, Robert, and one son, Thomas, of the home; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Earl McCown, Circleville, and Mrs. Herman Becker, Columbus; one brother, Amos Chaney, Circleville; and one sister, Mrs. Viva Payne, Circleville.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home, with the Rev. Alonzo Hill officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 6 p. m. today.

Two Motorists Fined, Jailed By City Court

Two out-of-city motorists, accused of driving when under the influence of intoxicants, headed today's roundup of cases heard in Circleville Municipal Court.

They were: Robert Bartley, 29, Lancaster, and George Goins, 33, Ashville. Each was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

Bartley was arrested by city police and Goins was cited by the state patrol.

In two other traffic cases, Eddie C. Frasure, 28, Buford, Ga., and Bethuel I. Parsons, 44, Columbus, each was fined $20 and costs for speeding at 70 in a 50 mile zone.

Frasure was arrested by the patrol and Parsons by local police.

The trumpet call of the whooping crane can be heard for about three miles.

Senate Probers Plying Dulles With Questions

House Committee OKs Ike's Mid-East Plan With Minor Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approved without major change by a House committee, President Eisenhower's program to forestall communism in the Middle East faced further attack today by critical Democratic senators.

The Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees recalled Secretary of State Dulles for further questioning with Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicting the public hearings will continue "at least another two weeks."

He said they will "expose administration foreign policy failures in the Middle East that brought the present resolution to a head." He said the committee will question most of the U. S. ambassadors stationed in the Middle East.

But Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), like Humphrey a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said the hearings have developed what appeared to be "a more or less concerted policy of harassment of the administration."

"I'm not averse to criticism and searching inquiry," he added, "but some of our members have gone beyond that point."

NO SUCH controversy arose in the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which voted 24-2 for Eisenhower's resolution Thursday after making only five minor changes. One other member voted "present" and five were absent.

The committee left intact provisions for the authority Eisenhower asked to use United States armed forces if necessary to halt overt armed aggression by Communist-controlled troops in the Middle East.

It voted to let him use up to $200 million of available funds, and like amounts for the next two years, after specifying the money would be available for both military and economic aid in that area.

The committee also put a June 30 deadline on use of the funds now available, but approved relaxation of most other restrictions. No one country could get more than $30 million.

Shortly before the committee acted Thursday, it received from former President Truman a statement suggesting that Congress "should help to fill the void" in administration plans which he described as "indefinite."

He said he favored giving Eisenhower the authority asked for, but contended the administration "has revealed it actually has no definite plan of action in the Middle East."

He suggested that Congress be specific in granting authority.

SENATE DEMOCRATS sought to get details from Dulles as he contended that Congress should trust the President with this program.

Humphrey, one of the questioners, said, "The American taxpayer has a right to know how much these oil-rich countries like Saudi Arabia and Iraq are going to get." King Saud of Saudi Arabia, he added, "needs money like I need a hole in the head."

The continuing crisis in the Middle East, Humphrey said, "adds up to a shocking condemnation of the administration's policies."

Dulles, his face flushed, and his voice, some times trembling with anger, hotly defended his Middle East policies during more than five hours of interrogation.

High Price Trend Seen In Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate report says an upward trend in the prices of new homes has "brought the housing industry to a point where it is serving primarily the upper income groups."

The report, prepared by the staff of the Senate Housing subcommittee, said Thursday families in the middle income bracket are being squeezed out of the housing market.

Low-income families also were described as suffering from housing shortages said by the report to be plaguing most of the nation's cities. However, poorer families are eligible for low-rent public housing, the study noted.

Two Defendants Get Dispositions

Two men indicted by the Pickaway County grand jury received dispositions during arraignments held in common pleas court this week.

The defendants are Robert Gittens and Hartley Schenk. Each was fined $50 and costs for reckless operation. They originally had been accused of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Courtright Points To VFW Service

Darrel Courtright, commander of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post, 3331, today called public attention to the VFW national legislative service.

The service gives veterans full-time representation before Congress in Washington, Courtright pointed out, and hence is a strong factor in many benefits already achieved and an aid for the cause of the veterans through the future.

Courtright's statement was timed to coincide with the current National VFW Week.

Roads Clear But Sleet Is Forecast

Although city and county roads were clearing today after the snowfall last night and this morning, lower temperatures and freezing rain predicted for the next 24 hours are expected to make driving hazardous tonight.

Crews of both the county engineering office and the city service department applied sand and mixtures of sand and salt to critical areas this morning.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I married a Frenchman hastily, after putting several thousand dollars into his business, which I wanted to be part of. But when the time came to work together, he didn't want me in it, as he said I didn't fit into the picture.

Jacques (I'll call him) had been married before, to an alcoholic, who had been unfaithful to him from the first. Still he keeps in touch with her by telephone and letter and tells her all about our personal as well as our business relations, which I resent.

He buys her gifts with money he takes from the business, which he shouldn't do, as it is a losing thing. He says I don't understand why he keeps in touch with her; he says it's because he feels sorry for her, and the past is his.

One month he called her long distance 20 times, and charged it to our business phone. I raised the dimes, because the money I put in is for business, not for his personal calls. I never call anyone long distance, much less charge it to business — which is wrong.

Recently Jacques has said that he doesn't love me; but the following day he will say that he does. What should I do?

C. Y.: Gullibility has been defined as closing one's eyes to evident risks, and blindly hoping that wishful thinking will make everything turn out all right—right in the sense of giving us what we are after.

Apparently this was your "unclear" but desperately grabby state of mind, when you led into an involvement with Jacques, first by putting your money at his disposal, and later, by marrying him hastily—which may have been his expedient way of "canceling" his borrower's debt to you.

The gist of your present outcry seems to be that Jacques isn't what he ought to be, or what you intended him to be, in relation to you, as business partner and spouse. But to take that attitude is to overlook the fact that you are, in effect, the architect and builder of the problem in which you find yourself.

Jacques is what he is, the sum of what he always has been—

Ike Plans Renewing Plea For Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will send to Congress next Monday a special message renewing his plea for more than $1 billion for public school construction in the next four years. The White House announced the date Thursday but gave no details of the proposal.

Steelworker Union Seeks More Gains

CINCINNATI (AP)—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, says new contracts in the last four years have given the workers $3,707 more pay annually.

He made the statement in a speech before union leaders from Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan and Indiana.

McDonald then added that "we don't intend to stand still." "I'm well assured that none of you is completely satisfied with the programs as they now exist, and I want you to know that, like any other member of this union, neither am I," McDonald said.

Ohioan Accused Of 100 Burglaries

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Police Thursday arrested a former Navy enlisted man who told them he committed at least 100 burglaries last December in Warren, Ohio, and Washington, D. C.

They identified him as Robert Veatch, alias Rocco Vecchio, 20. He was discharged from the Navy last October and apparently lived in Washington most of the time.

Officers said Veatch told them one of two pistols he had was taken from a police officer he assaulted in Warren.

Warren and Washington authorities are expected to arrive here today to question Veatch.

Sandusky Man Injured By Store Bandit

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—A holdup man opened fire with a revolver in a crowded supermarket here Thursday night, seriously wounding store manager Kenneth Cullen.

Victor Abcock, Sandusky police chief, who happened to be shopping in the Fisher Foods store, also was the target of the gunman's bullets but escaped injury. Three bullets pierced the chief's overcoat.

Cullen, 31, told police just before going into surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital that the man had tried to hold him up.

Bystanders in the store saw Cullen lead the man, described as 45-50 years old, tall and slender, to Abcock, who was wearing civilian clothing. Cullen was heard to say, "This is our chief of police."

At that point, the man whipped out a revolver and fired five times. Cullen was in critical condition at the hospital this morning after bullets were removed from a lung and from his stomach.

FINDLAY (AP)—James Cramer, 14, Findlay, was killed Thursday when he fell beneath the wheels of a transport truck. Dr. Byron Voorhees, Hancock County coroner, ruled it an accidental death.

Is Miraculous Divine Healing Being Performed Today?—No. 3

In our previous studies of miracles we noted that Christ performed miracles to establish the claim that He was the Son of God and to prove that He had the power on earth to forgive sins (John 3:2; John 5:36; Mark 2:10-11). Today we shall notice:

WHY THE APOSTLES PERFORMED MIRACLES

MIRACLES NOT FOR PERSONAL GAIN Not once do we ever read of an inspired man, or Christ himself, performing a miracle of healing for money or personal gain. They did not want money and even refused it when offered to them (see the example of Peter in Acts 8:18-24). Great emphasis is given to the money angle in modern day "healing campaigns," with the collection plates being circulated quite often.

Furthermore, miracles in New Testament times were to "produce faith in and to confirm the word of God" (as we have already noted), rather than to aid the sick. Helping the sick was only incidental to the main purpose and not the main purpose itself. Paul had a "thorn in the flesh" (2 Cor. 12:7-9). Peter could heal. Why did Peter not heal Paul? Paul left Trophimus at Miletus sick (2 Tim. 4:20). Did Paul not have the power to heal him? Then why was he not healed? Paul advised Timothy to take a little wine for his stomach's sake and his often infirmities (1 Tim. 5:23). Timothy had the faith and Paul had the power, yet he did not heal him, as this was not the use for which God intended miracles. (To be continued next week.)

Woman Seeking To Aid Husband Almost Jailed Too

TOLEDO (AP)—A 47-year-old Akron woman went to the probation office here to see if she could help her husband, charged with larceny by trick. She almost wound up in jail herself.

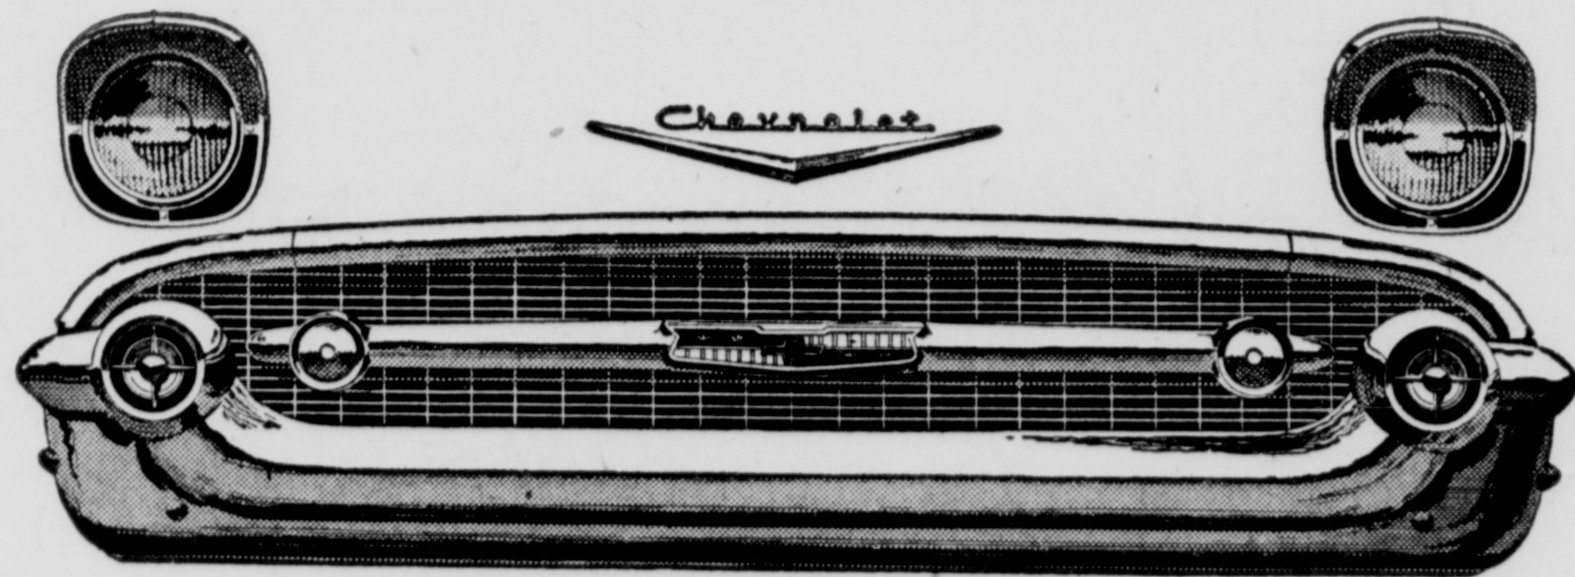

The husband, Harold Estes Dobbins, had pleaded guilty and his case had been referred to the probation department for a presentence report.

In walked Mrs. Peggy Dobbins, mother of six children.

Probation Officer Kenneth A. McDannell asked her if she ever had been in trouble with the law.

"My husband and I were found guilty of petty larceny several years ago, but that's all been taken care of," she said.

Not so, said McDannell. "You still owe $39.50 in court costs."

Chevrolet shows you some important differences in low-priced cars just by the look on its face!

Wouldn't you say that most of the '57 cars look good from 50 feet away, but what about from 50 inches away?

What does a close-up of the grille tell you, for example? Is it solidly made like the new Chevrolet grille? Or, in comparison does it look less rich in design—feel less strong and solid? Compare the quality and construction of the bumpers and headlights, the fit of the chrome trim.

The more closely you look all around the car, the more clearly you'll see that Chevrolet has the edge in the way it's put together. You'll find, for instance, that Chevrolet is the only car in its field with a lacquer finish... that only Chevrolet Bel Air models give you foam rubber cushions in front and rear seats as standard equipment. These are just a few of the advantages of Body by Fisher. And Chevrolet, you know, is the only low-priced car that has a Fisher Body.

We'll be glad to give you a close-up, comparative look at this new Chevy any time you care to come in. This week, maybe?

Bus Driver Finds Hunch All Too True

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bus driver Harold Roth sensed that his brakes were not holding properly, so he asked his passengers to leave the Cleveland Transit System bus before he started down the winding Superior Road Hill in Cleveland Heights Thursday.

Shortly after he started down hill in the empty bus, the brakes did fail. The bus hit two utility poles on opposite sides of the street before stopping.

Religious Beliefs Curb Exercise Class

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Two junior high school students who refused to take physical education classes their father described as "immoral and unholy" were re-admitted to school today after an agreement between the school board and the parents.

The students, Philip, 12, and Naomi Lee, 13, had been suspended Monday night.

C. C. Loew, Urbana superintendent of schools, said the parents had agreed that the children could participate in physical education classes which take into account the religious objections raised.

"Loew said the children will not be required to take exercises in a 'reclining or prone position,' that they may wear any garments they wish, and may take the classes by themselves under supervision of a teacher.

The children are the son and daughter of Orval Lee, who said he is a minister of the United Holiness Churches of America.

namely, a person without much strength or integrity in his conduct of life, as his behavior indicates. But you threw yourself headlong into situations of "trusting" him, which means that you gullibly refused to see him for what he is—because the reality of his character was a direct contradiction of what you "needed" and would prefer, if given a choice of life companion.

So, your unhappy experience of coping with this cheating opportunist was self-induced; a matter of "kidding" yourself that black was white, more or less—or that black could be whitewashed into "getting by."

As for what to do: 1. It isn't what Jacques says, about his love feelings or lack of same, but, rather, his actions day-to-day, that tell you what to expect. And his actions show that he isn't four-square; that you can't build with him, in terms of counting on honest forthright cooperation and reliable self-discipline in him.

2. Look facts in the face, about yourself and Jacques: about your common sense (if any) as versus his instability; and about the price of being his wife, as versus the strain of living alone.

3. Then decide if you can stay with him and be adequately self-sustaining, without self-pity, while putting up with the liability that he is. Or whether you can't stand being cheated, confused and flouted indefinitely. Having decided, take action accordingly. Then you'll be pulling yourself together, into some measure of rational order.

Is Miraculous Divine Healing Being Performed Today?—No. 3

In our previous studies of miracles we noted that Christ performed miracles to establish the claim that He was the Son of God and to prove that He had the power on earth to forgive sins (John 3:2; John 5:36; Mark 2:10-11). Today we shall notice:

WHY THE APOSTLES PERFORMED MIRACLES

Jesus promised miracles as a means of "confirming their word" (Mark 16:15-20). After sending his apostles out on the great commission and promising them the "signs that follow" we read: "And they went forth, and preached every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following" (Mk. 16:19-20). Paul said that the word was "confirmed and witnessed" (Heb. 2:3-4). He said, "... God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will."

MIRACLES NOT FOR PERSONAL GAIN

Not once do we ever read of an inspired man, or Christ himself, performing a miracle of healing for money or personal gain. They did not want money and even refused it when offered to them (see the example of Peter in Acts 8:18-24). Great emphasis is given to the money angle in modern day "healing campaigns," with the collection plates being circulated quite often.

Furthermore, miracles in New Testament times were to "produce faith in and to confirm the word of God" (as we have already noted), rather than to aid the sick. Helping the sick was only incidental to the main purpose and not the main purpose itself. Paul had a "thorn in the flesh" (2 Cor. 12:7-9). Peter could heal. Why did Peter not heal Paul? Paul left Trophimus at Miletus sick (2 Tim. 4:20). Did Paul not have the power to heal him? Then why was he not healed? Paul advised Timothy to take a little wine for his stomach's sake and his often infirmities (1 Tim. 5:23). Timothy had the faith and Paul had the power, yet he did not heal him, as this was not the use for which God intended miracles. (To be continued next week.)

the look on its face!

Wouldn't you say that most of the '57 cars look good from 50 feet away, but what about from 50 inches away?

What does a close-up of the grille tell you, for example? Is it solidly made like the new Chevrolet grille? Or, in comparison does it look less rich in design—feel less strong and solid? Compare the quality and construction of the bumpers and headlights, the fit of the chrome trim.

The more closely you look all around the car, the more clearly you'll see that Chevrolet has the edge in the way it's put together. You'll find, for instance, that Chevrolet is the only car in its field with a lacquer finish... that only Chevrolet Bel Air models give you foam rubber cushions in front and rear seats as standard equipment. These are just a few of the advantages of Body by Fisher. And Chevrolet, you know, is the only low-priced car that has a Fisher Body.

We'll be glad to give you a close-up, comparative look at this new Chevy any time you care to come in. This week, maybe?

Needs That Jesus Meets—Temperance

CHRIST HEALS THE SICK AND FORGIVES A MAN HIS SINS

Scripture—Matthew 8:1-9:34.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WHEN JESUS came down from the mountain after His teaching of the Christian way of life, multitudes followed Him.

A leper who was compelled to cry, "Unclean, unclean" if anyone approached him because of the contagious nature of the disease, came to Jesus and fell on his knees, worshipping Him, and saying, "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus touched the poor creature with His hand, saying, "I will; be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy was cleansed.

As Jesus entered Capernaum, a centurion, a Roman officer commanding 100 men, came to Him telling Him that his servant was very ill. The Lord said He would go to him, but the centurion said, "Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldst come under my roof. But speak the word only, and my servant will be healed."

Christ marveled at the man's faith, saying, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." To the centurion He said: "Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee." That same moment the servant was healed.

Entering into Peter's house Christ found Peter's wife's mother ill with a fever. He just touched her hand and the fever left, and she arose and ministered unto them.

Such great multitudes following Christ, that He and His disciples took a ship to go to the other side of the sea. A terrible storm arose and the apostles were frightened. Jesus was sleeping, and as the waves engulfed the ship, the men awakened Him, begging Him to save them, or they would perish. He rebuked them as having very little faith.

"Then He arose and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm." The dramatic story of two men who were met on the other side of the sea, possessed of very ferocious devils, was the next miracle. The devils recognized the Lord, and cried to Him, "What have we to do with Thee, Jesus. Thou Son of God? art Thou come hither to torment us before the time?" They also asked that if they were driven out of the tormented men would Jesus allow them to enter into a herd of swine that were some distance off? After He had cast the devils out of the men, He said, "Go!" and they entered into the swine which became frantic and ran violently down an incline into the sea.

Even while Christ was doing His work of healing there were some who were His enemies. The scribes and Pharisees were constantly on the lookout to detect things He said or did that they might accuse Him and take Him into custody. For instance, a man based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

was brought to Him to be healed of palsy. Christ said to him, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee."

Scribes standing near said to themselves, "This man blasphemeth." Jesus knew what they thought, and said to them, "Wherefore thinketh thou evil in thy hearts? Whether it be easier to say thy sins be forgiven thee, as to say, arise and walk?"

Then he said to the sick man, "Arise, take up thy bed and go into thy house," and the man did so. And Jesus also said that "the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive sins." The multitude marveled and glorified God who had given His Son such power.

As Jesus passed along a street, He saw a man named Matthew seated at his post as a tax collector. "At the receipt of custom," as the Bible tells us. He said to him, "Follow Me," and the man arose, left his work, and followed the Master.

To Jesus, all men, whether publicans and sinners, were to be saved from their sins, so many came and ate with Him. When the Pharisees saw this, they said to His disciples, "Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinners?" Jesus said, "They that are whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

As He was on His way to heal the daughter of a ruler who was very near death, a woman who had been diseased for 12 years said to herself, "If I may but touch His garment, I shall be whole." Jesus saw her and said: "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole."

Before Christ had reached the ruler's house the girl had died, but Jesus said, "The maid is not dead but sleepeth," and He took her by the hand and she arose.

His next act of mercy was to a dumb man possessed of a devil. Christ cast the devil out, but the Pharisees said, "He casteth out devils through the prince of devils."

We have taken so much space to tell the story of Christ's aid to the sick and suffering that we have little more to mention the temperance part of our lesson. Drinking, the taking of narcotics, causes a tremendous amount of crime, including broken homes, shootings, and much suffering.

Intemperance is at all times high in our land. Drunken driving is the cause of many accidents causing severe injuries and deaths, and it is a most pressing problem. The statistics concerning these things must give us great concern. Our prayers should go up to God to help us to solve these terrible things.

Top Leaders Split On U.S. Money Policy

Ways For Government To Counteract Any Recession Studied

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A split at the top level appears to be widening today over the tight money policy as a curb on inflation and over ways the government could counteract any recession in the offing.

President Eisenhower makes it clear he doesn't think the Federal Reserve should tighten money and credit any further, although he agrees with the board that the threat of more inflation is quite real. And he casts doubts on the real effectiveness of "moderate restraints" such as those applied in the last year.

He also takes the opposite side of the street from Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey on any plans for deficit financing to halt a recession—which the secretary sees likely if government spending keeps climbing.

The President would use any constitutional means to halt a serious slump. The secretary bars the most obvious means—deficit financing to permit pump priming and tax cuts.

Congress seems quite likely to step into both debates. Any study of banking and government financial policies will stir up a battle over tight money and the Federal Reserve's role—and such studies are in the making.

As Congress looks into the details of the President's record peace-time budget, it seems sure to probe deeper into the divergent views of the President and the secretary on the role that government spending should play in the economy.

In his annual economic report to Congress the President goes to the core of the controversy over tight money: The question of whether it hurts more than it helps.

For more than a year the Federal Reserve has let the economy tighten itself. The demand for credit has been rising at a great rate, and at a much faster rate than the total of new savings. The Federal Reserve hasn't pumped new credit into the economy to meet this rising demand for funds. Hence, credit has become harder to find, and interest rates have risen.

Federal Reserve officials stress that actually they have supplied the banks with additional funds to meet normal seasonal increases in demand, and then have withdrawn these reserves from the banks when the seasonal demand has passed. Over the year as a whole, they contend, there has been almost no change in the amount of reserves supplied.

Tight money, therefore, has resulted from the growing demand of business for borrowable funds, and not from any tightening up by the Federal Reserve.

Those whom tight money has pinched, however, loudly contend

Experts Believe Most Dogs Color Blind, Near-Sighted

Whether dogs are "short- or near-sighted" is a perennial source of argument among dog owners, who also frequently debate the topic of the dog's ability to determine color and distinguish objects at night.

The Gaines Dog Research Center, New York, has rounded up expert opinion on these subjects, which it summarizes here.

It has been known for some time that most dogs are near-sighted. Hound breeds such as the Coonhound, Bloodhound, Foxhound, etc., possess an exceptionally keen sense of smell, but cannot be said to have vision equal to their sense of smell.

On the other hand, the rangy hounds such as the Saluki, Afghan, and Borzoi — classified as "sight hunters"—are able to spot game at a considerable distance.

AS TO whether dogs are color blind or not, the best that can be said is that they have a rudimentary kind of color discrimination. While experiments show that dogs cannot actually tell one color from another, they can choose between colors because of their degree of brilliance.

In other words, a dog will pick out a bright red object not because it is red, but because it is bright red. Generally speaking, a dog's overall color sense is weak and it can become confused if you change the shape or position of the color object.

Scientists experimenting with color vision of dogs more or less agree that dogs can tell different shades of grey and black better than the primary colors. It might be said, then, that dogs live in a world of greys and blacks.

Dogs and man share a visual phenomenon. It can be seen with one or two eyes. Most of us have experienced the sensation—when riding in a train or car—of objects farthest away (such as trees, telephone poles, etc.) appearing to move more slowly and in the opposite direction than those nearby. This is called parallax displacement.

Dogs and some other animals have a facility or "eyeshine" which affords them a degree of night vision not found in all animals. This eyeshine was observed in the cat by the ancient Egyptians and may have been a factor in the sacred position in Egyptian culture enjoyed by that animal.

Almost every motorist has seen this brilliant eyeshine of some animal along the highway at night, particularly when the headlights focused on the animal's eyes.

Thus, the dog is more or less color blind and near-sighted.

Gallipolis Facing Rebuff In Court

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission has directed the city of Gallipolis, to comply with its standards of sewage treatment or face court action.

The commission, in quarterly meeting, accused the city in a resolution of "failure to comply with standards the commission set up for treatment of sewage." The resolution was adopted unanimously, it was reported.

Unless the commission receives by its April meeting "a detailed outline of action," it will initiate action to force compliance, the resolution stated.

that the Federal Reserve should have made more funds available to help them.

OHIO ELECTRIC RATES ARE LOW

Most Ohio electric bills are well below the national average.

In 1956 the average Ohio bill for 250 kilowatt hours (typical residential consumption) was tied for second lowest among the eight states in this section of the country.

The average 1956 electric bill for 250 kilowatt hours in Ohio's seven largest cities was 4.1 per cent below the national average for cities above 50,000 population.

In this period of constantly rising prices electricity stands out as the best bargain in Ohio's family budget.

Top Leaders Split On U.S. Money Policy

Ways For Government To Counteract Any Recession Studied

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A split at the top level appears to be widening today over the tight money policy as a curb on inflation and over ways the government could counteract any recession in the offing.

President Eisenhower makes it clear he doesn't think the Federal Reserve should tighten money and credit any further, although he agrees with the board that the threat of more inflation is quite real. And he casts doubts on the real effectiveness of "moderate restraints" such as those applied in the last year.

He also takes the opposite side of the street from Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey on any plans for deficit financing to halt a recession—which the secretary sees likely if government spending keeps climbing.

The President would use any constitutional means to halt a serious slump. The secretary bars the most obvious means—deficit financing to permit pump priming and tax cuts.

Congress seems quite likely to step into both debates. Any study of banking and government financial policies will stir up a battle over tight money and the Federal Reserve's role—and such studies are in the making.

As Congress looks into the details of the President's record peace-time budget, it seems sure to probe deeper into the divergent views of the President and the secretary on the role that government spending should play in the economy.

In his annual economic report to Congress the President goes to the core of the controversy over tight money: The question of whether it hurts more than it heals.

For more than a year the Federal Reserve has let the economy tighten itself. The demand for credit has been rising at a great rate, and at a much faster rate than the total of new savings. The Federal Reserve hasn't pumped new credit into the economy to meet this rising demand for funds. Hence, credit has become harder to find, and interest rates have risen.

Federal Reserve officials stress that actually they have supplied the banks with additional funds to meet normal seasonal increases in demand, and then have withdrawn these reserves from the banks when the seasonal demand has passed. Over the year as a whole, they contend, there has been almost no change in the amount of reserves supplied.

Tight money, therefore, has resulted from the growing demand of business for borrowable funds, and not from any tightening up by the Federal Reserve.

Those whom tight money has pinched, however, loudly contend

Experts Believe Most Dogs Color Blind, Near-Sighted

Whether dogs are "short- or near-sighted" is a perennial source of argument among dog owners, who also frequently debate the topic of the dog's ability to determine color and distinguish objects at night.

The Gaines Dog Research Center, New York, has rounded up expert opinion on these subjects, which it summarizes here.

It has been known for some time that most dogs are near-sighted. Hound breeds such as the Coonhound, Bloodhound, Foxhound, etc., possess an exceptionally keen sense of smell, but cannot be said to have vision equal to their sense of smell.

On the other hand, the rangy hounds such as the Saluki, Afghan, and Borzoi — classified as "sight hunters"—are able to spot game at a considerable distance.

AS TO whether dogs are color blind or not, the best that can be said is that they have a rudimentary kind of color discrimination. While experiments show that dogs cannot actually tell one color from another, they can choose between colors because of their degree of brilliance.

In other words, a dog will pick out a bright red object not because it is red, but because it is bright red. Generally speaking, a dog's overall color sense is weak and it can become confused if you change the shape or position of the color object.

BRITISH DOCS SQUEEZED

MORE THAN 40,000 British doctors are threatening to curtail their services unless they get salary increases from their government.

The situation in which the practitioners find themselves is inherent in any system of socialized medicine such as the National Health Service Plan which Britain adopted nine years ago. The doctor is paid by the state. His income is fixed by government fiat. He is permitted to have private patients who pay for his services, but such patients are a rarity inasmuch as 97 per cent of the population prefers the "free" medical care which the government guarantees.

The doctors' complaint is that they have not had a raise since 1951 and their present average pay of $6,160 a year is insufficient to meet rising living costs. They also contend that when they became civil servants the government promised, by implication, that they would be paid in terms of the 1939 value of money.

The government position is that it owes it to the country to do everything possible to combat inflation. The present cost of "free" medical service is $1.4 billion a year, most of it raised from taxes. The cost of meeting the doctors' demands would be $56 million a year. The British economy, as government spokesmen see it, can not take such a blow.

The doctors have a strong case when they insist that, like everyone else, they should be paid salaries commensurate with their services. They are in the same predicament as pensioners and others on fixed incomes, but unlike most pensioners, they are men active in their profession who feel they are making a day-to-day contribution to the national welfare.

One way out of the dilemma would be to take a new look at the system which makes doctors the servants of the state. But no one in Britain seems to have thought of that, or to favor it. After all, millions of the Queen's subjects still have the notion they are getting something for nothing, and the British public would probably regard abolition of socialized medicine as "turning the clock back."

VANISHING CRANES

IN A FEW YEARS the whooping crane may be as extinct as the passenger pigeon, a species which once darkened the skies of a large part of the U. S. in migratory flight.

News from the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas, where the only known flock of these birds winters, is that only 23 cranes returned from their Summer nesting grounds in Canada this year. Included are two young ones. Last Winter there were 28 birds in the flock.

There is a remote possibility that some of the cranes have selected other Winter grounds, but none has been reported elsewhere and conservationists regard it as extremely unlikely. Everything possible has been done to prevent the whoopers from becoming extinct, but that isn't much. They cannot be raised in captivity, few young ones seem to be hatched each year, and some of the older birds die or are shot.

Wildlife experts fear the fact they cannot be raised in captivity and the small number remaining render all efforts to save the species from extinction hopeless.

Tenth Of Mile For A Meal

By HAJ BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail or take off his earmuffs:

That a housewife, unless she cooks with a can opener, often walks 500 feet or more (a tenth of a mile) in preparing a single meal. Why not give your wife a pair of roller skates on her next birthday?

That a wife who sits down to peel vegetables or do her ironing uses only half as much energy as she does if she performs the same chores standing up.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

This year, the bicentennial of Alexander Hamilton's birth is being celebrated because perhaps more than any man, more than Washington or Jefferson, Hamilton was the political and financial engineer who built the peculiar form of government and the type of capitalistic society that was established here.

It was no mean task that Alexander Hamilton undertook when he wrote the principal Federalist papers because the people in the colonies feared government; or perhaps it is more correct to say that they feared the power of government against which they had rebelled. They had witnessed the peril of the expansion of power and had been forced to risk their lives in a military operation to resist oppression.

When men engage in rebellions, they anticipate a large measure of personal liberties to be their gain and often what they really seek is an individualism akin to anarchy. Alexander Hamilton's task was to find an orderly procedure not only for government but for the national economy. He was our first open nationalist, it may be said.

Dean Louis M. Hacker of Columbia University has written a biography, "Alexander Hamilton, in the American Tradition," for the occasion of the bicentennial. This book might well be read by the rulers of the many new nations which are cluttering the world because from it they could learn that no nation is truly free unless it has found a way to establish a sound national economy. George Washington was indeed fortunate that his Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, understood the science of money and the art of building capital and appreciated the relationship of both to national existence and freedom.

Hamilton's "The Report of Manufactures," established the economic relations between the government and the individual citizen, and propounded policies which were consistently pursued until the New Deal came upon the United States and John Maynard Keynes taught us a new economy which has since become our model. Hamilton said this:

"That the annual produce of the land and labor of a country can only be increased in two ways—by some improvement in the productive powers of the useful labor which actually exists within it, or by some increase in the quantity of such labor."

Dean Hacker says of "The Report on Manufactures":

"... It was both the longest and most complex of the public documents Hamilton drew up at this time; it was also his whole statement of his hopes for and his faith in the future of the United States."

"Hamilton wanted men of affairs — adventurers, enterprisers, the capitalist class, in short—to rally to the support of the new government..."

In a word, he sought to make the new nation attractive to business and he succeeded, for capital from all parts of the world, capital and labor have poured into this country in enormous quantities not as grants or gifts or aids but as investments with the expectation of a profitable return on the money.

SERGEANT Anderson was leading a detail through the cottonwoods on the double. Chad straightened, legs spread, and stood that way until Anderson stopped in front of him and saluted.

"Colonel Randall said..." Anderson paused.

Chad said, "I understand, Sergeant. We had a little brush with the Indians. As you can see, Mullvane has been hurt. See that he is taken care of."

"Yes, sir," Anderson said with a straight face. "Saunders, Toliver. Get Sergeant Mullvane on his feet and help him back to camp."

"I ain't hurt," Mullvane muttered, and got to his feet. Then his knees buckled and he fell on his face.

"Help him back to camp like I told you," Anderson said.

When the detail had gone Chad stumbled to the edge of the river and, kneeling down, sloshed water over his battered face. Funny thing, he thought. During a fight you never know how much of a beating you're taking. Well, he'd taken one, all right, but no more than Mullvane had taken.

Zack said, "I know what you're thinkin'. Well, I saw your ruckus. You was standin' up and Mullvane wasn't. That's good enough."

Maybe it was. Mullvane didn't think he'd been licked, but if the men thought he had been, Chad had accomplished something. Chad said, "You were looking for Indians? That why you were down here?"

"Yeah," Zack said sourly. "I got one and the other two lit out."

"They'd have got me and Mullvane both," Chad said, "if it hadn't been for you."

"You bet they would. Now look here, Looimant. The Sioux ain't gonna beat down the fort arter it's built, and most of the young bucks are out huntin' now. Come winter, they'll be watchin' us and we won't never know it. But let a man or two get out here by himself, and they'll git him."

"I understand, Zack," Chad said.

He glanced at the lanky scout moving beside him through the dusk. In time, he thought, Zack could train the soldiers of the

Exertion And Emotion Are Causes Of Fatigue

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ARE you tired? I mean really attentive. Naturally, this will decrease your ability to perform whatever it is you have to do.

If you are, it's a pretty good bet that you are emotionally upset. I don't mean you're "off your rocker," but you probably have had an emotional experience very recently.

A couple of experts in this business of fatigue, Dr. Arthur G. Bills, head of the University of Cincinnati's psychology department, and his co-worker, Dr. James Vaughn, say the majority of cases of fatigue are the result of both exertion and emotion.

Only if you are a thoroughly mature person, they report—and there are relatively few of this type—is your fatigue without some element of conflict or emotion. Frequently, persons under strong emotional strain for a lengthy period will suffer complete exhaustion.

Proved by Tests

Actual tests tend to bear this out. It was found that a group of medical students studying for important exams gave evidence of excessive release of adrenalin which left them weak and fatigued.

Your mind can become tired just as your body can. If you think too much and too hard you might develop nervous fatigue. But I don't imagine many of us are troubled with that.

Physical Tiredness

You can usually tell when you are becoming fatigued even before you are actually aware of your physical tiredness. You will become bored with what you're doing and you'll probably be in-

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. C.: I have a continual rolling of gas in my stomach and always belch gas—which is very embarrassing. Could you tell me what I should do?

Answer: The formation of large amounts of gas in the bowel may be due to a number of causes, one of the most common being gall-bladder infection. Eating foods which contain too much starch and sweets might result in the formation of a great deal of gas. An examination should be made to find the cause; then it can be eliminated.

Gene Sherman knows a maverick who spends most of his waking hours hating cats. "This business about cats always landing on their feet is a lot of hogwash," he crowed to Gene. "I've got a way of putting a spin on them so that nine times out of ten they land right on their head." Sherman allegedly cites the case of an observant father who noticed that every time one of his children dropped a piece of bread on the floor, it landed butter side up. "This is in

These Days

This year, the bicentennial of Alexander Hamilton's birth is being celebrated because perhaps more than any man, more than Washington or Jefferson, Hamilton was the political and financial engineer who built the peculiar form of government and the type of capitalistic society that was established here.

It was no mean task that Alexander Hamilton undertook when he wrote the principal Federalist papers because the people in the colonies feared government; or perhaps it is more correct to say that they feared the power of government against which they had rebelled. They had witnessed the peril of the expansion of power and had been forced to risk their lives in a military operation to resist oppression.

When men engage in rebellions, they anticipate a large measure of personal liberty to be their gain and often what they really seek is an individualism akin to anarchy. Alexander Hamilton's task was to find an orderly procedure not only for government but for the national economy. He was our first open nationalist, it may be said.

Dean Louis M. Hacker of Columbia University has written a biography, "Alexander Hamilton, in the American Tradition," for the occasion of the bicentennial. This book might well be read by the rulers of the many new nations which are cluttering the world because from it they could learn that no nation is truly free unless it has found a way to establish a sound national economy. George Washington was indeed fortunate that his Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, understood the science of money and the art of building capital and appreciated the relationship of both to national existence and freedom.

Hamilton's "The Report of Manufactures," established the economic relations between the government and the individual citizen, and propounded policies which were consistently pursued until the New Deal came upon the United States and John Maynard Keynes taught us a new economy which has since become our model. Hamilton said this:

"That the annual produce of the land and labor of a country can only be increased in two ways—by some improvement in the productive powers of the useful labor which actually exists within it, or by some increase in the quantity of such labor."

Dean Hacker says of "The Report on Manufactures":

"... It was both the longest and most complex of the public documents Hamilton drew up at this time; it was also his whole statement of his hopes for and his faith in the future of the United States."

"Hamilton wanted men of affairs — adventurers, enterprisers, the capitalist class, in short—to rally to the support of the new government."

In a word, he sought to make the new nation attractive to business and he succeeded, for capital from all parts of the world, capital and labor have poured into this country in enormous quantities not as grants or gifts or aids but as investments with the expectation of a profitable return on the money.

SILENT RIVER

SERGEANT Anderson was leading a detail through the cottonwoods on the double. Chad straightened, legs spread, and stood that way until Anderson stopped in front of him and saluted.

"Colonel Randall said . . . " Anderson paused. Chad said, "I understand, Sergeant. We had a little brush with the Indians. As you can see, Mulvane has been hurt. See that he is taken care of."

"Yes, sir," Anderson said with a straight face. "Saunders, Toliver. Get Sergeant Mulvane on his feet and help him back to camp."

"I ain't hurt," Mulvane muttered, and got to his feet. Then his knees buckled and he fell on his face.

"Help him back to camp like I told you," Anderson said. When the detail had gone Chad stumbled to the edge of the river and, kneeling down, sloshed water over his battered face. Funny thing, he thought. During a fight you never know how much of a beating you're taking. Well, he'd taken one, all right, but no more than Mulvane had taken.

Zack said, "I know what you're thinkin'. Well, I saw your cucks. You was standin' up and Mulvane wasn't. That's good enough."

Maybe it was. Mulvane didn't think he'd been licked, but if the men thought he had been, Chad had accomplished something. Chad said, "You were looking for Indians? That why you were down here?"

"Yeah," Zack said sourly. "I got one and the other two lit out."

"They'd have got me and Mulvane both," Chad said, "if it hadn't been for you."

"You bet they would. Now look here, Lieutenant. The Sioux ain't gonna beat down the fort after it's built, and most of the young bucks are out huntin' now. Come winter, they'll be watchin' us and we won't never know it. But let a man or two get out here by himself, and they'll get him."

"I understand, Zack," Chad said. He glanced at the lanky scout moving beside him through the dusk. In time, he thought, Zack could train the soldiers of the Fifteenth to fight Indians. If they lived long enough.

Slowly Fort Butterfield took shape. The stockade was finished first, then work was started on the two blockhouses. Each was twenty-one feet square, pierced with holes for rifles and the twelve-pounders Randall had brought. The blockhouses, located on opposite corners of the fort, afforded a commanding view of the surrounding area.

Chad supervised the construction of a cattle yard which was protected by another smaller stockade outside the fort. As soon as it was finished, he took his crew to a fertile flat east of the fort and began cutting wild hay. The herd, grazing north of the fort, was guarded by two of Mulvane's detail, and was always brought back to the cattle yard before sundown.

Chad grudgingly admitted to himself that Randall held up his end. He might be plagued by indecision; he might lack a hard core of courage, but he did understand construction.

Zack was continually on the move. He had disliked Randall from the moment he had met the man, a dislike that had grown through the weeks as Randall's faults became more evident.

"Goldangest thing I ever see, this here fort is," Zack said one night. "Most of these army posts don't look like this. Usually they've got enough soldiers to protect 'em without throwin' up this Dan'l Boone stockade business you've got."

"The stockade isn't a good idea. That it?"

"It's all right, maybe. But we're gonna be cooped up in it till we'll be lucky to get down to the river if a boat goes by." Zack chewed vigorously on a piece of grass. "And another thing, I never seen an outfit with just two officers, and a cunnel and a lieutenant at that. What did they send a cunnel up here for, anyhow?"

"Colonel Randall holds his rank by brevet," Chad explained. "Actually he's a captain and he draws a captain's pay."

"Then what do they call him Cunnel for?"

"It's kind of like being a judge and then not being a judge. Even if you lose the job, people keep on calling you Judge."

DIET AND HEALTH

Exertion And Emotion Are Causes Of Fatigue

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ARE you tired? I mean really tired? If you are, it's a pretty good bet that you are emotionally upset. I don't mean you're "off your rocker," but you probably have had an emotional experience very recently.

A couple of experts in this business of fatigue, Dr. Arthur G. Bills, head of the University of Cincinnati's psychology department, and his co-worker, Dr. James Vaughn, say the majority of cases of fatigue are the result of both exertion and emotion.

Only if you are a thoroughly mature person, they report—and there are relatively few of this type—is your fatigue without some element of conflict or emotion. Frequently, persons under strong emotional strain for a lengthy period will suffer complete exhaustion.

Proved by Tests

Actual tests tend to bear this out. It was found that a group of medical students studying for important exams gave evidence of excessive release of adrenalin which left them weak and fatigued.

Your mind can become tired just as your body can. If you think too much and too hard you might develop nervous fatigue. But I don't imagine many of us are troubled with that.

Physical Tiredness

You can usually tell when you are becoming fatigued even before you are actually aware of your physical tiredness. You'll become bored with what you're doing and you'll probably be inattentive. Naturally, this will decrease your ability to perform whatever it is you have to do. What can you do to keep from becoming fatigued? Dr. Bills has some suggestions:

If you are a student, you can do your studying in quiet surroundings. You should have good light and all your equipment right at hand. These are pretty good suggestions no matter what you have to do.

Factory Worker

If you are a factory worker, make sure you are performing your job the most efficient way. If you have some ideas on how to improve your performance or make your chores easier, let the boss know. He realizes it's good business to keep your job from becoming monotonous.

No matter what your job, your toughest chore probably awaits you at home after work—how to get the kids to bed and make them stay there. I'll tell you tomorrow.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. C.: I have a continual rolling of gas in my stomach and always belch gas—which is very embarrassing. Could you tell me what I should do?

Answer: The formation of large amounts of gas in the bowel may be due to a number of causes, one of the most common being gall-bladder infection. Eating foods which contain too much starch and sweets might result in the formation of a great deal of gas. Your physical tiredness. You'll become bored with what you're made to find the cause; then it can be eliminated.

Kappa Beta Class Features "Snow Party" At Meeting

Mrs. Dolores Carley Hostess To Members

The January meeting of the Kappa Beta Class of First Evangelical United Brethren Church featured a "snow party."

The group met with Mrs. Dolores Carley of 129 Hayward Ave. Miss Phyllis Hawkes served as assistant hostess.

Decorations consisted of snow scenes, flower arrangements and snowmen favors.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Carley and Miss Hawkes, who used "Rules For a Happier Life" as their topic. Mrs. Carley and Miss Hawkes sang a duet entitled "I Need Jesus," after which the group sang "Living For Jesus" and "Isn't He Wonderful." A poem, "Place God First," was read by Mrs. Carley.

President, Miss Hawkes conducted the business meeting. The class decided to hold dollar night at the February meeting, and members voted to give a donation to the Lowery Mission in Circleville.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood had charge of the study book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," by Norman Peale.

A contest was conducted by the hostesses and was won by Miss Marjorie Francis.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Miss Kirkwood, Mrs. Fern Bozman, Mrs. Jean Eldridge, Miss Marilyn Francis, Miss Marjorie Francis, Miss Dolores Mavis, Miss Pat Nau, Miss Kathy Schneider, Miss Rebecca Strawser, Miss Sandra Valentine, Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward, Mrs. Rosemary Weaver, Miss Leona Wise, Miss Virginia Wise and Dana Carley.

Convenience-Storage Space Shown In "Idea" Kitchen

A place for everything—that is what a woman wants in a kitchen!

Does she find it? Not often enough.

But the trend is changing, and women who are hoping to be home owners have just one thing in mind. Whatever else that dream house is going to have, for certain it will boast a kitchen that is complete with all conveniences and storage room aplenty.

Just such a kitchen was shown in Dayton. The company that brought it out termed it an "idea" kitchen, and that is what it is. The ideas in it are ones you could duplicate with the aid of your architect.

Table space is special in the idea kitchen. Why? Because, when not in use, it vanishes! The table folds neatly into a wall cabinet.

The table is not the only thing that does a disappearing act. A sewing machine does ditto! Arranged in the laundry corner of the kitchen, so it is handy when a homemaker wants to mend items headed for the wash, the machine unfolds from a drawer compartment placed close to the automatic washer and electric dryer.

As for storage space, the kitchen has ample, and all of it efficient. As shown in the above picture, the pot closet, for just one example, is arranged with roll-out shelves so you can make your selection with a minimum of trouble.

Everything is designed to make work easier for the lady of the house.

It is a dream kitchen, but it is a dream that can come true for you, Future Home Owner, if you plan ahead.

Atlanta WSCS Conducts Meet In McGhee Home

The Atlanta Women's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. Ulin McGhee for its January meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles W. Mills presided over the business meeting.

The session opened with the reading of the poem, "Petition For a New Year," followed by the hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King."

Thirteen members answered roll call after which the secretary and treasurer reports were given by Mrs. Tom Farmer.

Mrs. Hoyt Martin, secretary of Spiritual Life, read "Relief From Tension Found From Faith." The group then sang "Oh! Worship the King," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Everett Hoskins, secretary of local church activities, announced that the group would hold a white elephant sale during the February meeting.

Cards of thanks were read from Mrs. George Betts, Mrs. Merle Scott and Mrs. Robert Bartel.

Mrs. Tom Farmer and Mrs. Wendell Evans presented the program, with the topic being "Islands In My Own Community."

Mrs. McGhee, assisted by Mrs. John Williams and Mrs. Everett Hoskins, served a desert course to the group.

Guests for the meeting were: Mrs. John Skinner and Scott and Jeff and Vic and Vall Skinner of Clarksburg, Leslie Williams and Debbie Morris.

Kappa Beta Class Features "Snow Party" At Meeting

Mrs. Dolores Carley Hostess To Members

The January meeting of the Kappa Beta Class of First Evangelical United Brethren Church featured a "snow party."

The group met with Mrs. Dolores Carley of 129 Hayward Ave. Miss Phyllis Hawkes served as assistant hostess.

Decorations consisted of snow scenes, flower arrangements and snowmen favors.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Carley and Miss Hawkes, who used "Rules For a Happier Life" as their topic. Mrs. Carley and Miss Hawkes sang a duet entitled "I Need Jesus," after which the group sang "Living For Jesus" and "Isn't He Wonderful." A poem, "Place God First," was read by Mrs. Carley.

President, Miss Hawkes conducted the business meeting. The class decided to hold dollar night at the February meeting, and members voted to give a donation to the Lowery Mission in Circleville.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood had charge of the study book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," by Norman Peale.

A contest was conducted by the hostesses and was won by Miss Marjorie Francis.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Miss Kirkwood, Mrs. Fern Bozman, Mrs. Jean Eldridge, Miss Marilyn Francis, Miss Marjorie Francis, Miss Delores Mavis, Miss Pat Nau, Miss Kathy Schneider, Miss Rebecca Strawser, Miss Sandra Valentine, Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward, Mrs. Rosemary Weaver, Miss Leona Wise, Miss Virginia Wise and Dana Carley.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. George Fissell of 705 N. Pickaway St. returned home yesterday from Fullerton, Calif., where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harden and children Ned and Mary Ann.

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will meet in the home of Mrs. William Justus of 628 S. Scioto St. at 8 p. m. Monday.

Mrs. F. E. Duncan of 133 Pickney St. will be hostess to members of Berger Hospital Guild 28 at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Dude Ranch Party Highlights Meet Of Wesley-Weds

Members of the Wesley-Wed Class of First Methodist Church enjoyed a Dude Ranch Party at their monthly social event.

The program for the evening was under the direction of Mr. Ivor Jones of Chillicothe, who led the group in a series of folk games.

Members of the program committee who planned the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Matesky, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graf and Mr. and Mrs. Gurner Musselman.

Convenience-Storage Space Shown In "Idea" Kitchen

A place for everything—that is what a woman wants in a kitchen!

Does she find it? Not often enough.

But the trend is changing, and women who are hoping to be home owners have just one thing in mind. Whatever else that dream house is going to have, for certain it will boast a kitchen that is complete with all conveniences and storage room aplenty.

Just such a kitchen was shown in Dayton. The company that brought it out termed it an "idea" kitchen, and that is what it is. The ideas in it are ones you could duplicate with the aid of your architect.

Table space is special in the idea kitchen. Why? Because, when not in use, it vanishes! The table folds neatly into a wall cabinet.

The table is not the only thing that does a disappearing act. A sewing machine does ditto! Arranged in the laundry corner of the kitchen, so it is handy when a homemaker wants to mend items headed for the wash, the machine unfolds from a drawer compartment placed close to the automatic washer and electric dryer.

As for storage space, the kitchen has ample, and all of it efficient. As shown in the above picture, the pot closet, for just one example, is arranged with roll-out shelves so you can make your selection with a minimum of trouble. Everything is designed to make

Atlanta WSCS Conducts Meet In McGhee Home

The Atlanta Women's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. Ulin McGhee for its January meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles W. Mills presided over the business meeting.

The session opened with the reading of the poem, "Petition For a New Year," followed by the hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King."

Thirteen members answered roll call after which the secretary and treasurer reports were given by Mrs. Tom Farmer.

Mrs. Hoyt Martin, secretary of Spiritual Life, read "Relief From Tension Found From Faith." The group then sang "Oh! Worship the King," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Everett Hoskins, secretary of local church activities, announced that the group would hold a white elephant sale during the February meeting.

Cards of thanks were read from Mrs. George Betts, Mrs. Merle Scott and Mrs. Robert Bartel.

Mrs. Tom Farmer and Mrs. Wendell Evans presented the program, with the topic being "Islands In My Own Community."

Mrs. McGhee, assisted by Mrs. John Williams and Mrs. Everett Hoskins, served a desert course to the group.

Guests for the meeting were: Mrs. John Skinner and Scott and Jeff and Vic and Vall Skinner of Clarksburg, Leslie Williams and Debbie Morris.

Stoutsville Units Enjoy Luncheon

Several of the Knights of Pythias and their families and the Pythian Sisters met in the Stoutsville hall.

A pot luck luncheon was prepared by the women and the men furnished refreshments.

The group completed plans for the card party, which they will hold January 31.

An enjoyable time was had by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Don Sharp and daughter of near Oakland, Mr. Matthew Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lynch, Mrs. Patricia Woliver, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rife, Mr. and Mrs. James Lovett and Wendell and Sharyl.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Lovett and Michel, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rife and Terry Rife, Paul Reed, Mrs. Walter Huffer, Mrs. Denny, Mrs. Etta Hoffman, Mrs. Nellie Campbell, Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop, Mrs. Helen Root and Nora and Bertha Valentine.

Good vegetable combination: green peppers, cut in wide strips, cooked in butter with sliced mushrooms. Nice with veal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman either talked too fast or has switched ground. First he thought President Eisenhower's program for stopping communism in the Middle East was clear. Now he thinks it's vague.

He still supports the general idea, but his turnaround at least served to close some of the gap between him and the man who helped him shape foreign policy when he was in the White House, former Secretary of State Acheson.

On Jan. 5 Eisenhower went before Congress in person to present his program. On Jan. 7 Secretary of State Dulles explained for hours to the House Foreign Affairs Committee what the program meant and why he thought fast congressional approval was needed.

When Dulles got through, the program was far from clear, and still is. Eisenhower asked authority to use the armed forces to stop Communist aggression in the Middle East and he requested 200 million dollars a year for aid in the area.

Dulles has never explained how the aid would be used. He's never said who'd get it, and he hasn't mentioned one country which asked for it. Eisenhower also wants to send arms to the Middle East. Who'd get them? No clear answer on this, either.

Only Thursday Dulles got so irritated when pressed by a senator for more information that he said: "If Congress is not willing to trust the President to the extent he asks, we can't win this battle. 'I you have to have everything pinned down so everyone, including the Communists, knows in advance what you're going to do, this program will not serve its purpose.'"

Acheson testified Jan. 10 and opposed the Eisenhower program as "vague, indefinite, and inadequate." It was vague all right. Whether it's inadequate is a matter of opinion.

But, having had time to digest all that was said by Eisenhower, Dulles and Acheson up to Jan. 13, Truman on that day issued a statement backing up Eisenhower's program and calling on Congress to do the same.

Eisenhower's proposals, Truman said, were a "clear-cut policy of action."

Since then Dulles has testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He hasn't added much to what he had already told the House committee. But Thursday Truman issued another statement.

Now he says the administration's case "appears to be shrouded in vagueness." The administration's policy, he said, is "so indefinite and incomplete" that it has "no definite plan of action in the Middle East."

Now Truman and Acheson agree the program is "vague." But whereas Acheson thought it inadequate, Truman still supports it while urging Congress, before approving it, to spell out a bit just what the program is intended to do.

Truman sent his statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee a few hours before it approved Eisenhower's proposals almost word for word as he offered them.

By this time Truman must be getting used to being ignored by his fellow Democrats.

They turned down his advice at the Democratic convention last summer when he opposed the nomination of Adlai Stevenson. And the committee which Thurs-

3-Month Vacation Every 5 Years Is Goal Of Unionist

CINCINNATI (AP)—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, today suggested a three-months vacation every five years for production workers as a brake against the replacement of men by machines.

McDonald spoke at a five-state steelworkers conference attended by more than 800 local presidents.

His vacation suggestion was one of three he made as a means of meeting the problems created in an age of automation.

McDonald declared the cost of the vacation plan would not be unreasonable and that it would increase employment rather than merely hold the present lines.

The alternative suggestions he made were establishment of a four-day, 32-hour week or a five-day, 30-hour week. He added that the cost of the vacation plan would be about 11 cents an hour while the other plans would cost 70 to 90 cents an hour.

Under the vacation plan a steelworker, after five consecutive years of employment, would receive a three-months work break in addition to the annual vacation he had earned under his employment tenure.

Asserting that automation would be an important factor in future union goals, McDonald said: "While science may have devised ways of replacing men by pushbutton control of machines, they have not yet—and never will—replace the human equation where it counts most, in the purchase of consumer goods."

I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of the steelworkers, told the conference that the union will seek to extend its industry-wide bargaining pattern, already established in basic steel, to other fields where the union holds jurisdiction.

If the union's bargaining aims are realized, he said, future contracts will be negotiated on an industry-wide basis in aluminum, copper, pipe valve fitting and foundry industries where the steelworkers have union membership.

"Eventually the principle will be established in steel fabricating and allied industries where our union has bargaining rights," Abel said. "We have been moving in that direction for many years and we have been succeeding by degrees."

Indian Diplomat Ends 'Filibuster'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—V. K. Krishna Menon of India finished the longest speech in U. N. history Thursday. It ran for 7 hours and 48 minutes.

The Indian Cabinet minister and roving diplomat talked about Kashmir through three meetings of the Security Council.

The United States and four other nations introduced a resolution in the council intended to freeze the situation in disputed Kashmir until its fate is decided by a plebiscite. The four were Australia, Colombia, Cuba and Britain. The council adjourned for lunch without dealing with the proposal.

But Eisenhower's program is over only the first of four hurdles. It still has to be approved by the full house, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and, finally, the full Senate.

Sokolsky's These Days

It was the attractiveness for investment that built the United States and when protectionism was established for our infant industries, it was not on some theoretical basis that tariffs are good or bad, but rather that industry was beneficial to the country and that capital was entitled to compensation if it was or is to work at all.

Dean Hacker pays Hamilton this tribute: "This astounding young man—whether born in 1755 or 1757, he was still in his early thirties when he became the country's first Secretary of the Treasury in 1789—was not only the greatest administrator the United States has ever produced, he was undoubtedly one of its greatest statesmen. If statecraft requires the clear understanding of all those forces and progress demand, plus the ability to create realistically and effectively the day-to-day devices for their realization—in short, the joining of both ends and means in a workable policy—Hamilton was a statesman without equal."

This is a particularly suitable time to study the work of Alexander Hamilton because this country needs to be put back on the track of its traditions.

The budget now before Congress will not do that because its expenditures can only weaken both the husbandry of the individual citizen and our national economy.

Hamilton did not believe that a nation could be rich if its citizens were impoverished by excessive withdrawal of capital by means of taxation.

Dayton Medic Is Freed In Narcotic Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dr. John C. Coldiron, 59-year-old Dayton physician, was found innocent Thursday of a government charge that he administered narcotics illegally.

A jury of seven men and five women deliberated three hours before returning the verdict.

Dr. Coldiron, a former Kentucky state senator, was charged with four counts of illegally administering morphine sulphate shots.

Government witnesses during the four-day trial testified they purchased shots from Dr. Coldiron.

The defense maintained that Dr. Coldiron, who admitted administering the shots to nine persons, was trying to cure them of drug addiction.

Dr. Coldiron, a one-time unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant-governor of Kentucky, said he has no plans now other than to get his affairs in order and "take a little rest."

Amanda Defeats Pickaway Dairy To Win Industrial Cage Crown

Amanda's cagers wrapped up the county industrial league basketball title last night by virtue of a thrilling 63 to 58 victory over Pickaway Dairy.

In two other contests played at the fairgrounds coliseum, DeMolay defeated Stoutsville, 67 to 59, and Scioto Elks registered a 61 to 57 decision over Kingston.

Amanda and Pickaway Dairy went into their contest with identical records to decide the loop championship. Amanda finally won out but they were forced to the limit before subduing the stubborn dairymen.

The battle was nip and tuck all the way, with both teams holding leads throughout the fray. Amanda was ahead at the end of the first quarter, 10-9, but the dairy cagers came back to lead at halftime, 29-26.

AMANDA pushed out in front again at the three-quarter mark to lead, 46-45. The losers tried desperately to rally in the closing minutes of the test but their efforts fell short.

For their league winning performances, the Amanda team was presented with a large trophy on behalf of the Circleville New Car Dealers Association.

Runnerup Pickaway Dairy received a trophy presented by the Circleville Oil Co.

'Hurricane' All Upset As Heavyweight Champ Basks In Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP)—On the surface everything was sweet and peaceful at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers Assn. Thursday night.

Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and sports columnist Frank Graham of the New York Journal-American received the main awards. Even Julius Heland, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, was content just to hand Patterson the Edward J. Neil plaque as Fighter of the Year without putting the rap on anyone or anything.

But in a far corner of the grand ballroom of the Roosevelt Hotel, a tall, broad-shouldered fellow sat and burned.

"I'll get him the next time, I'll show him. I'll chop him up something awful. You wait and see."

The words came slowly at first, then in a torrent from Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson.

"He was my friend," said Tommy, "but he ain't any more. I'll get him in June. That's my next fight. Him and me for the title."

What was it that was upsetting him?

"I beat him the last time and he knows it," replied the Hurricane. "I made the fight. He didn't do nothing to me. He only fought a couple of seconds each round. So he got the decision and he got to fight Archie Moore and he won the title. It should have been me. But I'll get him. He ain't my friend any more. I ain't been mad at anyone before but now I'm mad."

Patterson won a split decision over Jackson at Madison Square Garden last June 8 to earn the shot at Moore. He then knocked out Moore in the fifth round Nov. 30 to succeed the retired Rocky Marciano as heavyweight champion.

A Patterson-Jackson title fight for June has not been made yet but everyone seems to think it will.

The Neil award is named in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed in 1938 while serving as a war correspondent in Spain.

Tail-Enders Blessed By Top Scorers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Kenyon is 12th and Hiram last in the 14-college Ohio Conference cage standings, but each has a player among the top three scorers in the sprawling circuit.

Heading the list, with 184 points in eight games for an average of 23, is Dan Bumstead of Kenyon, although the Lords have lost five of eight contests. Jim Dolan of Hiram is third with 148 points and a 21.1 average for seven games, all lost by the Terriers. Between them in second spot is Lenny Nelson of Muskingum with 221 for 10 games.

Homer Gilchrist of Oberlin will carry an unusual mark into tomorrow night's game against Buffalo State. The Yeoman sharpshooter has connected on 29 of 31 free throw attempts this season, including the last 28 in a row. That's a .935 percentage from the charity line. Kenyon's Bumstead has made 70 of 100 free throws.

Denison, pacing the conference standings with a 7-1 record to second place Mt. Union's 4-1, doesn't have a scorer among the top dozen. Lou (Earl) Mitchell is head man for the Big Red with 165 points for 10 games, an average of 16.5 which puts him in the 13th spot.

Terry Doems, Wittenberg's 6-4 standout, is the loop's leading rebounder with 262 for 12 games, with Mike Outcalt of Capital second with 120 for seven tilts.

Tom Forrestal, Navy quarter-back, comes from an athletic family. His father captained a national championship hurling team in Ireland.

Ted Kroll won the 1956 "world championship" of golf eight days after his 37th birthday.

Ice Fishing: A Liking For It Is Acquired, But Cautiously

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ice fishing, to hear the congealed victim of an inadequately advised first attempt tell it, is a sport particularly suited to — if not invented by — those untrammelled souls who would rather die than stay home with their families.

This is not, really, such an extreme view as it might appear to the observer except that it doesn't work any more. Nowadays the family goes along.

One of the arguments in support of ice fishing is its modest requirements in the way of equipment — only a few crude tools, most of which can be stolen from the neighbors, in a pinch.

These include an ax or hatchet to cut holes in the ice in areas where the ice is less than three or four inches thick. If it is much less, a stout line affixed to a tree on the shoreline will occur to the foresighted.

As a matter of fact, it is remarkable how many ice fishermen fall wallowing into the icy waters with a 20.1 average for 13 games.

Machen Favored To Trip Maxim

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Joey Machen, former world's light heavyweight champion, will be giving away 10 years and about nine pounds tonight when the sly veteran tries to avoid the knockout punches of undefeated Eddie Machen, one of the top heavyweight title contenders.

Once you've got a hole close to the hole of some glowering expert who is catching fish, actual fishing can begin although that's usually the least of your troubles. A handline, a small (No. 2 or so) hook and maybe the tip of a discarded flyrod will do for the pan fish. Bait may be minnows, exotic worms or artificials. A line-holding and signaling device called a tip-up is used by fishermen who have fixed dislike for having their hands frostbitten. Extra gloves are in order, too, because if you catch a fish you'll either have to get your hands wet unhooking it or else carry it home that way.

Another word on clothing: the usual advice is to "wear enough clothes." More realistic: wear all you can.

Ice Fishing: A Liking For It Is Acquired, But Cautiously

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ice fishing, to hear the congealed victim of an inadequately advised first attempt tell it, is a sport particularly suited to — if not invented by — those untrammelled souls who would rather die than stay home with their families.

This is not, really, such an extreme view as it might appear to the observer except that it doesn't work any more. Nowadays the family goes along.

One of the arguments in support of ice fishing is its modest requirements in the way of equipment — only a few crude tools, most of which can be stolen from the neighbors, in a pinch.

These include an ax or hatchet to cut holes in the ice in areas where the ice is less than three or four inches thick. If it is much less, a stout line affixed to a tree on the shoreline will occur to the foresighted.

As a matter of fact, it is remarkable how many ice fishermen fall wallowing into the icy waters ner chops a hole with a spud, the stroke that breaks the last layer of ice also sends the spud plummeting through to the bottom.

Once you've got a hole close to the hole of some glowering expert who is catching fish, actual fishing can begin although that's usually the least of your troubles. A handline, a small (No. 2 or so) hook and maybe the tip of a discarded flyrod will do for the pan fish. Bait may be minnows, exotic worms or artificials. A line-holding and signaling device called a tip-up is used by fishermen who have fixed dislike for having their hands frostbitten. Extra gloves are in order, too, because if you catch a fish you'll either have to get your hands wet unhooking it or else carry it home that way.

Another word on clothing: the usual advice is to "wear enough clothes." More realistic: wear all you can.

There are many more niceties for the hopeless addict. These include portable shelters ranging up

Machen Favored To Trip Maxim

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Joey Machen, former world's light heavyweight champion, will be giving away 10 years and about nine pounds tonight when the sly veteran tries to avoid the knockout punches of undefeated Eddie Machen, one of the top heavyweight title contenders.

Machen, one of the youngsters who are showing the old-timers aside in the heavyweight division, will be gunning for his 20th straight victory and his 15th

Here's BIG NEWS for you

Greatest thing that ever happened to the Century

YOU'VE SEEN many improvements in wagons these past 5 years. But, to use a vivid expression, "You ain't seen nothing yet!"

For now comes a new kind of wagon called the Caballero.

It's the lowest and the sleekest wagon you ever saw—and the most practical wagon ever built by Buick.

You get up to 8½ feet of level deck for "long" freight—wider-opening rear gates top and bottom for easier loading — a panoramic rear window for safer parking. Even your rear-seat passengers get a view unmarred by center posts.

But beyond all that, this one's a '57 Buick CENTURY through and through.

So you ride with buoyant new roadability—from a new chassis that "nests" the body to a record low center of gravity.

You guide with a new and surer handling, stop on the level even when you have to brake hard, travel with the satisfying security of Buick brawn, solidity, rock-firm steadiness.

Above all, you command with a new ginger here—with a quicker and surer power response that stems from an all-new 364-cubic-inch V8 engine with 10 to 1 compression.

And sparking this great power is a new advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo® that gives you such instant full-torque obedience in "Drive"—it practically eliminates your need for "Low."

The stunning new Caballero—the '57 Buick CENTURY Estate Wagon illustrated here—can be yours at a price surprisingly easy to take.

Or you can have a similar body style in Buick's even lower-priced SPECIAL Series. Drop in and see us—today.

New from the carshow '57

364 cubic inch BIG

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

SAFETY NEWS Only Buick has the SAFETY-MINDER! — a simple device that's a great boon to your safety. You merely press the miles-per-hour you want. When you reach that point, a warning buzzer sounds. Drop below that point and the buzzer stops.

SAFETY REMINDER Dim your lights even if the oncoming car does not. Your chances are better if one of you can see. MAKE IT ALONG

Circleville Tigers Plan Strategy For Wilmington Invasion Tonight

Circleville's Tigers will muster every source of strength available tonight when they meet the Hurricanes of Wilmington in a league cage test in the E. Mill St. gym.

The Tigers know they must win if they are to remain in contention for South Central league honors. The CHS courtmen are also aware that their foe will be a tough team to handle.

Currently leading the SCOL, the Hurricanes have several performers who can be expected to give the Tigers plenty of trouble. One is Steve Rainer, Hurricane forward who likes to shoot from the side or drive to the basket — and he does both equally well.

Another visitor the Tigers will keep a close eye on is center Dave Carey, who stands around the 6' 4" mark.

ALTHOUGH the Hurricanes de-

Billy Reynolds Signs With Browns

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Browns today had the signed contract of halfback Billy Reynolds, whose last appearance with the club was in the 1954 championship game with Detroit. Reynolds made several long punt returns in that game.

Since then he has been starring for the Air Force at Bolling AFB. The 24-year-old Reynolds was with Paul Brown's National Football League team for two seasons before going into the Air Force.

The club also announced the signing Thursday of fullback Ed Modzelewski and quarterback Tommy O'Connell.

Musial Honored As 'Greatest'

ST. LOUIS — Stan Musial was feted Thursday night as a man who some day may be looked upon as the greatest baseball player of all time.

The 36-year-old star, whose name is peppered through baseball's record book, was given the Humanitarian Award bestowed by the St. Louis advisory board of the American Medical Center.

Warren Giles, president of the National League and one of the many speakers who heaped praise on Musial all evening, looked into the future and said Musial "because of his great contribution, plus his record and personality, could be chronicled as the greatest player of all time."

Philadelphia '5' Shows New Power

NEW YORK — The complexion of what was once a tight battle for second place in the eastern division of the National Basketball Assn. suddenly has taken on a decided Philadelphia hue.

From a half-game lead over the New York Knickerbockers, the Warriors burst into a 1 1/2-game advantage Thursday night as they defeated the St. Louis Hawks 107-96 while the Knicks were dropping a 115-97 decision to the Syracuse Nationals.

Circleville Tigers Plan Strategy
For Wilmington Invasion Tonight

Circleville's Tigers will muster every source of strength available tonight when they meet the Hurricanes of Wilmington in a league game test in the E. Mill St. gym.

The Tigers know they must win if they are to remain in contention for South Central league honors. The CHS courtmen are also aware that their foe will be a tough team to handle.

Currently leading the SCOL, the Hurricanes have several performers who can be expected to give the Tigers plenty of trouble. One is Steve Rainer, Hurricane forward who likes to shot from the side or drive to the basket — and he does both equally well.

Another visitor the Tigers will keep a close eye on is center Dave Carey, who stands around the 6' 4" mark.

ALTHOUGH the Hurricanes defeated Circleville, 62 to 39 on Wilmington's floor, the Tigers will go all out to even things up. A victory tonight would give the locals a record of three wins and two losses in league play.

Wilmington's loop record now stands at four victories and one defeat.

Circleville's starting lineup will probably be Tommy Krinn and Bill Johnson at forwards, Jon
Parcher at center and Mike Hosler and Bob Fraser at guards, Dick Banks, Nelson Kelley, John Davis and John Wright will probably be called upon for plenty of replacement duty.

Coaches and school officials are hoping that plenty of fans will be on hand at the spacious CHS gym to give the Tigers some vocal and moral support.

Coach Red Courtney's hardwood performers have only one more home game after tonight, with Hillsboro February 15.

Tonight's twin-bill gets underway at 7 p. m. Coach Dick Boyd's Kittens will be seeking their second victory of the season over the Hurricane reservists.

Billy Reynolds
Signs With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns today had the signed contract of halfback Billy Reynolds, whose last appearance with the club was in the 1954 championship game with Detroit. Reynolds made several long punt returns in that game.

Since then he has been starring for the Air Force at Bolling AFB.
The 24-year-old Reynolds was with Paul Brown's National Football League team for two seasons before going into the Air Force.

The club also announced the signing Thursday of fullback Ed
Modzelewski and quarterback
Tommy O'Connell.

Musial Honored
As 'Greatest'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Musial was feted Thursday night as a man who some day may be looked upon as the greatest baseball player of all time.

The 36-year-old star, whose name is peppered throughout baseball's record book, was given the Humanitarian Award bestowed by the St. Louis advisory board of the American Medical Center.

Warren Giles, president of the National League and one of the many speakers who heaped praise on Musial all evening, looked into the future and said Musial "because of his great contribution, plus his record and personality, could be chronicled as the greatest player of all time."

Philadelphia 'S'
Shows New Power

NEW YORK (AP) — The complexion of what was once a tight battle for second place in the eastern division of the National Basketball Assn. suddenly has taken on a decided Philadelphia hue.

From a half-game lead over the
New York Knickerbockers, the Warriors burst into a 1 1/2-game advantage Thursday night as they defeated the St. Louis Hawks 107-96 while the Knicks were dropping a 115-97 decision to the Syracuse Nationals.

Stengel Says His Yankees
To Be Stronger This Year

Editor's Note: Here is another in a series of managerial views on the 1957 baseball season written under the manager's own byline.

By CASEY STENGEL

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — The
New York Yankees will open the 1957 season not only as World Champions but strengthened by valuable prospects in the pitching department and in the infield.

We should win the pennant unless Detroit, Chicago or Cleveland has strengthened considerably over last year. Detroit, you know, played the best baseball in the American League the last month of the 1956 season. Cleveland and Chicago have changed managers and that may enliven the players.

Detroit had our number last year, winning the season series from us 12 games to 10. This was only the second season series the Yankees have lost in my eight years as manager.

We had a good team in 1956.
With good power, good speed and good defense. And it was a young club. The pitching wasn't what you would call excellent until those last five World Series games. Then it was simply tree-mending. My pitchers gave me five straight complete games in that series and I think that's going to give fellows like Ford, Turley, Larsen, Kucks and Sturdivant all the confidence in the world. I look for improved pitching in '57. Remember, we also have Grim, Morgan and McDermott plus such fine young prospects as (Jim) Depalo,

(Al) Cicotte, (Ralph) Terry,
(Mark) Freeman and (Jack) Urban.

I don't have to worry about my catching with Yogi Berra working every day. Just in case, I have Darrell Johnson and John Blanehard.

Billy Martin, Gil McDougald
Elston Howard and two of the best catchers in the minors last year, and Jerry Coleman can play any one of three infield positions and in an emergency I can use Bill Skowron at third or Andy Carey at short.

They tell me that Dick Sanders, who was voted the Eastern League's Most Valuable Player last year, is sure to make it someday at third base. I know what Bobby Richardson, who was at Denver last year, can do at second. He's a real comer. And don't overlook that Woody Held. He played shortstop at Denver last year but he can also play the outfield.

We're well protected at first base with Joe Collins to divide the chores with Skowron. Then there's a big rookie kid called Marv Throneberry. All he did last season was lead the American Association with 42 homers and 145 runs batted in. He was the league's Most Valuable Player.

We have no problems, of course, in center and right field. Mickey Mantle, who swept all honors last year, may be better than ever.
Hank Bauer's average dropped last year, but he was strong in homers and runs batted in.

Our weakness last year was youth and inexperience. We're still a young club but we're world champions and we've got a club that's liable to hold up for years.

Close Link Emphasized Between Good Vision And Motoring

Institute Notes Big Edge In Night Fatalities

Most 'Repeaters' On Violator List Have Eye Faults

Good eyesight is one of the most important requirements for safety under nearly all conditions, the Better Vision Institute points out.

Above all, when you take your place behind the wheel of a car you are betting your life on the chance that your vision will enable you to avoid disaster.

Indications of the vital relationship between good vision and highway accidents show up on all sides. For example, two-thirds of all traffic deaths occur at night, although only one-third of the driving is done then. Poor seeing conditions, such as rain, snow, and sharp turns obscured by bushes, are a factor in one-fifth of the fatal highway accidents.

Comparative studies of accident-free drivers versus accident-repeaters also reveal some very significant trends. The repeaters are inferior in ability to see with both eyes together at the same time, in depth perception, ocular muscle balance, and visual acuity. As visual acuity decreases from 20-35 to 20-50, there is a rapid increase in accident rate.

UP TO 56 percent of the repeaters have tunnel vision (inability to see objects on the side while looking straight ahead), as against only about one to three percent of the accident-free drivers. This is a crucial point, because some 75 percent of all traffic mishaps involve objects on the side.

Fortunately, visual training is often successful in improving poor side vision. Forty-three people at the University of North Carolina made an average improvement of over 200 percent after such training.

Fatigue is known to be a major cause of accidents, and poor eyesight is a major cause of fatigue. Poor eyesight also produces slow reactions, for quickness, as well as accuracy, of perception depends on vision.

Since the speed of cars today is more than twice what it was a couple of decades ago, quick reactions are essential. At 10 miles per hour, when the average driver with good vision sees danger ahead, he goes 11 feet before applying the brakes.

At 40 miles per hour, he covers 44 feet, and at 60, 66 feet. This delay in responding to danger is bad enough, but it is even greater for a driver with seeing faults—the poorer the vision, the slower the reaction time.

Other physical qualifications have a bearing on safety, too, but most of them are obvious. If you have a sore foot or a weak arm, you know it. However, one out of every six drivers needing eye-care is unaware of his seeing troubles. A person's visual condition can usually be determined only from an examination, so frequent eyesight exams are a must for safety's sake.

Make sure, then, that you understand your visual condition before attempting to drive a car, the institute advises.

The York retreat was the first institution in England in which the insane were treated kindly. It was opened by William Tuke, an English philanthropist.

Tribute Paid To 'Soldier' In A War That Never Ends

NEW YORK (AP)—"Spring 3100" is a magazine about the life of a man you see every day.

It shows him playing many parts, even, on occasion, the role of a midwife. Mostly, though, he appears as a soldier in a war that never ends. Usually, he is a family man, but he never knows when he goes to work whether he will come back.

Want to come into a policeman's world?

"Spring 3100" is the Journal of the New York police, but the man it mirrors is the good cop in any town.

He has terrific pride in his uniform, his mission, and his outfit—"Memo to the new men in the command: The 5th precinct is always first."

"Frank Duca did it again while off-duty on his way home. Captured three men after a two-mile, movie-style chase at 60 miles an hour. Good work and the kind that will reduce the amount of auto larceny cases."

He is anxious to qualify for promotion—

"The department once again receives its most severe test this month when about 11,425 patrolmen compete for the rank of sergeant. This represents almost half the total force. The study will not be lost or wasted because such effort makes patrolmen 'better cops.'"

His esprit de corps extends to his family—

"The two sons of a police lieutenant proved the adage 'Like father like son' Nov. 12 when they ran into two youths breaking into a clothing store. Edward and Walter Marks, sons of Lieut. Marcus Marks, grappled with the two burglars, one of whom stabbed Edward in the abdomen with a switch blade knife. Walter held the other until police arrived."

He never knows what the next moment may bring—

"Saw Herman Perry this morning; had his face splashed with acid last night. Answered a family fight and this female met him at the door with a jar of lye."

Patrolman Burnett Harris, noticing a man brandishing a revolver in a grocery store, quickly overpowered him. The thug's gun was more than 100 years old.

"Deputy Chief Inspector Michael Ledden stopped a suspect in Corona who had some 65 gallons of 190-proof booze in his auto."

Few men enjoy as much camaraderie in their work—

"Our precinct is forming a debating team. The first two applicants were Foghorn Walsh and Honeytones Mammola."

And he feels it when there is a gap in the ranks—

"The posthumous award went to Patrolman William G. Long who was killed when shot by a man tampering with an auto. Patrolman Long left a widow and three children."

He is a soldier in the war without a cease-fire who would be embarrassed if you called him a hero.

Romania Welshes On U.S. Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has protested that Communist Romania, after sending observers to the American election, welshed on an agreement to let Americans watch their voting.

Press Officer Lincoln White of the State Department said the U.S. government "regrets the decision of the Romanian government not to honor its agreement."

Three Romanians came to the United States last October for three weeks to observe the Nov. 6 election. However, the Romanian government told U. S. Minister Robert H. Thayer in Bucharest later that an American visit at this time was not considered appropriate.

All Naval Ships Seen A-Powered

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover predicts by the early 1960s every naval vessel authorized for construction will be propelled by nuclear power.

"The ultimate objective in the development of nuclear power for the Navy is the nuclear-powered task force capable of remaining at sea indefinitely without refueling," he said Thursday night at an American Legion meeting.

"Such a task force has become possible by the proved use of nuclear power for submarines. It will be widely dispersed over an ocean area as large as the state of Maine and would be able to control an area of 60,000 square miles," he said.

New 60-Day Liquor 'Freeze' Ordered By Ohio Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new liquor "freeze," barring issuance of bar or carryout permits for the next 60 days, was ordered Thursday by the Republican state administration.

Gov. C. William O'Neill said the emergency freeze was invoked to "hold the line" on new permits until the Franklin County Court of Appeals rules on the validity of another freeze adopted last May.

The May freeze, ordered by the administration of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, provided one liquor permit for every 3,000 population, but did not deal with carryout permits. It was designed to keep the number of whisky permits to a minimum, but let supply and demand control the number of beer and wine carryout permits.

That freeze was soon challenged by holders of carryout permits in Cincinnati, who filed suit to prevent the freeze from going into effect. Their action was seen as a move to keep carryout permits from becoming "a dime a dozen."

The Franklin County Common Pleas Court ruled, however, that the freeze was valid. At that point, the carryout permit holders took their case to the appellate court, where it now rests.

O'Neill, in declaring a state of emergency to cover the emergency freeze, said that a large number of applications for new permits is now on file.

Liquor Director Robert B. Krupansky told newsmen he favored the new emergency freeze, commenting:

"It is my intention to promptly and efficiently carry out the wishes of Gov. O'Neill to study the overall permit situation to better determine our future course of action.

"We also intend to screen thoroughly the large number of applications for new retail beer, wine and liquor permits now on file with the department."

Close Link Emphasized Between Good Vision And Motoring

Institute Notes Big Edge In Night Fatalities

Most 'Repeaters' On Violator List Have Eye Faults

Good eyesight is one of the most important requirements for safety under nearly all conditions, the Better Vision Institute points out.

Above all, when you take your place behind the wheel of a car you are betting your life on the chance that your vision will enable you to avoid disaster.

Indications of the vital relationship between good vision and highway accidents show up on all sides. For example, two-thirds of all traffic deaths occur at night, although only one-third of the driving is done then. Poor seeing conditions, such as rain, snow, and sharp turns obscured by bushes, are a factor in one-fifth of the fatal highway accidents.

Comparative studies of accident-free drivers versus accident-repeaters also reveal some very significant trends. The repeaters are inferior in ability to see with both eyes together at the same time, in depth perception, ocular muscle balance, and visual acuity. As visual acuity decreases from 20-35 to 20-50, there is a rapid increase in accident rate.

UP TO 56 percent of the repeaters have tunnel vision (inability to see objects on the side while looking straight ahead), as against only about one to three percent of the accident-free drivers. This is a crucial point, because some 75 percent of all traffic mishaps involve objects on the side.

Fortunately, visual training is often successful in improving poor side vision. Forty-three people at the University of North Carolina made an average improvement of over 200 percent after such training.

Fatigue is known to be a major cause of accidents, and poor eyesight is a major cause of fatigue. Poor eyesight also produces slow reactions, for quickness, as well as accuracy, of perception depends on vision.

Since the speed of cars today is more than twice what it was a couple of decades ago, quick reactions are essential. At 10 miles per hour, when the average driver with good vision sees danger ahead, he goes 11 feet before applying the brakes.

At 40 miles per hour, he covers 44 feet, and at 60, 66 feet. This delay in responding to danger is bad enough, but it is even greater for a driver with seeing faults—the poorer the vision, the slower the reaction time.

Other physical qualifications have a bearing on safety, too, but most of them are obvious. If you have a sore foot or a weak arm, you know it. However, one out of every six drivers needing eye-care is unaware of his seeing troubles. A person's visual condition can usually be determined only from an examination, so frequent eyesight exams are a must for safety's sake.

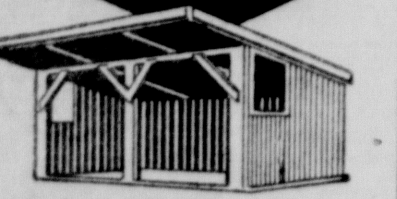

Make sure, then, that you understand your visual condition before attempting to drive a car, the institute advises.
